ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1906.---TEN PAGES. PRICE TWO CENTS.

For the Parlor

If we could only make a word picture that would show you all the beauty that this Parlor floor holds there's not one of you but would own some part of it ere another week passed by. You know your parlor needs a little touching up, perhaps you can't see your way clear to completely refurnish it—a new chair or two would go a long way toward making it right, a polished mahogany rocker, or a dainty little corner chair, or a gold chair—well with about 200 such odd little pieces and when we say $2.25 we mean a stylish little mahogany finished rocker highly polished and pretty enough for any home. The corner chairs are $4.50 and the real gold Bevins-Martin chairs are $7.50 and so on.

We'll fix it right for you and the cost won't be great either.

CANTEEN SHOULD BE RESTORED.

Opinion of Brigadier General Wint of Department of Missouri.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Brigadier General T. J. Wint, commanding the Department of the Missouri, has reported to the War Department that in his opinion the canteen should be restored at army posts. He says: "The demoralizing influence of the resorts surrounding posts cannot be too strongly emphasized, giving rise, as it does, to a large proportion of the most serious offences and practically all those with penitentiary confinements, a condition chargeable in a great measure, in the opinion of the judge advocate, to the prohibition placed upon the post exchange."

EARTHQUAKES IN SICILY.

Inhabitants Panic-Stricken Because of Shocks for Four Days.

PALERMO, Sept. 15.—The people of Sicily are still in a condition of panic because of the earthquake shocks which have been occurring here for the last four days. The government has issued instructions that food be distributed to needy persons.

TO VISIT COURT AT FEZ.

TANGIER, Morocco, Sept. 15.—The American mission, headed by Minister Gummere, who is accompanied by Commander J. C. Fremont, American naval attache at Paris and Captain William H. Cabanard, the military attache, left today for Fez.

Mr. Gummere is the first American minister to visit the court at Fez. It is significant that Raisuli, the bandit chief, sent presents to the first camping place where the embassy will spend the night.

EXHIBIT OF DECORATIVE ART.

Des Moines Arrives at Havana.

HAVANA, Sept. 15.—American cruiser Des Moines arrived her this morning. All on board are well.

REBELS DEFEATED NEAR HAVANA CITY

Large Force Dispersed After Stubborn Fight.

Insurgents Destroy Stone Bridges Near Gabanas.

HAVANA, Sept. 15.—Government forces have won a victory over the rebels at a point close to Havana. General Rodriguez, with 400 rural guardsmen, attacked the rebels under General Delcastillo and Colonels Ashert and Acosta 1,000 strong, at Wajay, 12 miles south of Havana. After a stubborn fight the rebels were dispersed. Eight of their number were killed and 23 were wounded. Of the guardsmen, one was killed and 12 were wounded. General Rodriguez returned to Havana this morning. There is considerable speculation as to why the enemy was not pursued.

A force of rebels yesterday destroyed two stone bridges over a highway near Cabanas.

The commander of the Cespedes, a coast guard vessel, has been arrested for negligence in allowing ammunition for the revolutionists to be landed near Rias.

Heavy fighting is reported near El Cano, 10 miles southeast of Havana. No details have yet been received.

REBELS ATTACK TOWN.

Defeated and Pursued by Victorious Government Troops.

HAVANA, Sept. 5.—The revolutionists attacked the town of San Domingo in Santa Clara province at 5 a. m. today, but were repulsed by the garrison of militiamen and rural guards. One rural guard, two militiamen and three revolutionists were killed. Five rural guards and one militiaman were wounded. One of the insurgents who was killed was Colonel Montejo. The government troops captured two prisoners and 60 horses and are now in pursuit of the retreating insurgents.

FORCE LANDED AT CIENFUEGOS.

Reports of Damage to Sugar Plantations Appear Exaggerated.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—None of the Secretaries who participated in the conference at Oyster Bay yesterday were in Washington early today, but Secretary Taft and Acting Secretary Bacon are expected to arrive later in the day or evening. Secretary Bonaparte will not be in Washington until Monday, and the affairs of the Navy Department are in charge of Rear Admiral Converse, who is acting secretary.

No definite arrangements have been made regarding the ship which will take Secretary Taft and Mr. Bacon to Havana from Key West, but a naval vessel will be used. A cable despatch received from Cienfuegos by the Navy Department announced the arrival of the Marietta at that place yesterday.

Later in the day another despatch was received from Commander Fullam of the Marietta, stating that a force had been landed from that ship at Cienfuegos to protect sugar plantations which were threatened. A telegram also was received at the State Department today from Mr. Atkins, one of the owners of the Constancia estate, near Cienfuegos, in which he says he received a cablegram from Cienfuegos today, announcing that insurgents raided Soledad yesterday, taking horses, and that the Marietta's force had camped in Cienfuegos last night. He says his information does

NEW YORK STATE POLITICS.

Subject of Discussion at Luncheon at Sagamore Hill.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A political luncheon, at which New York state politics was the subject of discussion, took place at Sagamore Hill today. President Roosevelt was the host and Representative James H. Sherman, chairman of the Republican Congressional committee, Timothy L. Woodruff, former lieutenant governor, and Albert Shaw, were guests.

It is understood that Mr. Woodruff was present in order that he might receive the benefit of President Roosevelt's influence in his fight against the state chairman, B. B. Odell. In Brooklyn, Before going to Sagamore Hill, Mr. Woodruff said that Governor Higgins undoubtedly could be induced to run for governor if his friends insisted on it, but that his understanding was that the governor was not desirous of entering the race.

Mr. Sherman said that he did not know exactly why he was called to Sagamore Hill at this time.

Acting Secretary of State Bacon went to his Long Island home in his automobile last night, and returned to Oyster Bay today, where he received communications from Washington at the executive office. He said there was today, and that it was his intention to proceed to Washington this afternoon.

DARRETT AT GUAYAQUIL.

Made Journey of 1,600 Miles on Muleback to Meet Secretary Root.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—John Barrett, American minister to Colombia, has sent a despatch to the State Department, announcing his arrival at Guayaquil, after 41 days and 1,600 miles travel on muleback over almost inaccessible mountains. He will await the arrival of Secretary of State Root. Mr. Barrett says he regards the region traversed by him as possessing the best undeveloped opportunities of all South America.

SEVERAL BODIES RECOVERED.

Hand Car Plunged Through Open Draw Over Maumee River.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Six bodies have been recovered, and at least four more are being searched for in the Maumee river, as a result of an accident last night, when a hand car plunged through an open draw on the Maumee bridge. The men were track employes of the Wheeling & Lake Erie road, according to time checks found on the bodies that have been recovered, but none of the names are known at this time. It is expected that the four other bodies supposed to be in the river will be recovered during the day.

It is believed that all those drowned were Italians from a station beyond this point. It is claimed the men took the hand car without authority and were running on the road without orders.

Fur buying is a mighty "ticklish" business—only experts can tell good furs—always. And as there is much deceit practiced in the sale of furs—you should buy yours at a store you know and one having a reputation for selling the furs.

THIS IS THAT KIND OF A STORE.

We are fur specialists—we take special pride in our enviable reputation of being "The Fur House of New England"—a name accorded us by wholesale fur dealers.

As usual we went direct to the manufacturer—early in the Summer selected only the most promising styles—then turned our attention to the skins—intelligently chose ONLY THE BEST and ordered them made up—according our specifications.

Well—they are ready now—and if you are at all familiar with furs—their qualities and values, you will quickly realize from inspecting ours that now is the economical buying time.

Come and see the furs, anyway.

ROOSEVELT SAYS WAR MUST STOP

Writes Letter of Solemn Warning to Cubans.

Decision Result of Conference at Oyster Bay.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Simultaneously with the official announcement tonight that Secretary of War Taft will leave Sunday for Cuba, President Roosevelt made public a letter of solemn warning and advice to the Cuban people. The letter is addressed to Senor Quesada, Cuban minister to the United States. As a state document it may be considered almost epochal, for it declares flatly that unless order is immediately restored and life and property rendered safe the United States will be compelled to take prompt and vigorous action.

In addition to Secretary Taft, Robert Bacon, Assistant Secretary of State, will go to Havana. The two will represent the United States, and their visit will be for the purpose of restoring order, diplomatically if possible, by force if necessary. Both Secretary Taft and Mr. Bacon will leave Washington Sunday. They will go direct to Key West and leave at once for Havana on board a naval vessel.

The conference which resulted in the Cuban decision began at Sagamore Hill shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon and continued until 10 o'clock tonight. At its conclusion Secretaries Taft, Bonaparte and Bacon left for New York and will go to Washington tomorrow.

Secretary Taft said as he left Oyster Bay that he had no idea as to the length of his visit to Cuba. He intimated that there would be no haste in the investigation which would be made there. Aside from this information, no discussion will be indulged by those attending the conference, the statement being made that the letter of the President was intended to cover the whole Cuban situation, so far as it was desirable to go in the public print.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana, a member of the Senate committee on Cuban relations, also participated in the conference.

President Roosevelt's letter in full is as follows:

"In this crisis in the affairs of the republic of Cuba, I write you, not merely because you are the minister of Cuba accredited to this government, but because you and I were intimately drawn together at the time when the United States intervened in the affairs of Cuba with the result of making her an independent nation.

"You know how sincere my affection and admiration and regard for Cuba are. You know that I never have done and never shall do anything in reference to Cuba save with such sincere regard for her welfare. You also know the pride I felt because it came to me as President to withdraw the American troops from the island of Cuba and officially to proclaim her independence and to wish her godspeed in her career as a free republic.

"I desire now through you to say a word of solemn warning to your people, whose earnest well-wisher I am. For seven years Cuba has been in a condition of profound peace and of steadily growing prosperity. For four years this peace and prosperity have obtained under her own independent government. Her peace, prosperity and independence are now menaced; for of all possible evils that can befall Cuba the worst is the evil of anarchy into which civil war and revolutionary disturbances will assuredly throw her.

"Whoever is responsible for armed revolution and outrage, whoever is responsible in any way for the condition of affairs that now obtain, is an enemy of Cuba; and doubly heavy is the responsibility of the man who, affecting to be the especial champion of Cuban independence, takes any step which will jeopardize that independence. For there is just one way in which Cuban independence can be secured and that is for the Cuban people to show their ability to continue in their path of peaceful and orderly progress.

"This nation asks nothing of Cuba save that it shall continue to develop as it has developed during the past seven years, that it shall know and practice the orderly liberty which will assuredly bring an ever increasing measure of peace and prosperity to the beautiful Queen of the Antilles. Our intervention in Cuban affairs will come only if Cuba herself shows that she has fallen into the insurrectionary habit, that she lacks the self-restraint necessary to peaceful self-government and that her contending factions have plunged the country into anarchy.

"I solemnly adjure all Cuban patriots to band together, to sink all differences and personal ambitions and to remember that the only way that they can preserve the independence of their republic is to prevent the necessity of outside interference by rescuing it from the anarchy of civil war.

"I earnestly hope that this word of adjuration of mine, given in the name of the American people, the staunchest friends and well-wishers of Cuba that there are in all the world, will be taken as it is meant, will be seriously considered and will be acted upon, and if so acted upon Cuba's permanent independence, her permanent success as a republic, are assured.

"Under the treaty with your government, I, as President of the United States, have a duty in this matter which I cannot shirk. The third article of that treaty explicitly confers upon the United States the right to intervene for the maintenance in Cuba of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty. WILD TO SEE MRS. LONGWORTH.

Crowd at Columbus So Dense That Panic Ensues.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 14.—With panic threatening, a crowd of 50,000 persons surging about a stand erected in the Capitol grounds frantic to secure a glimpse of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the President's daughter, the oratorical exercises arranged for the unveiling of a statue of William McKinley this afternoon were suddenly postponed until tonight after the statue of the martyred President had been hurriedly unveiled by Mrs. Longworth. The speeches of the occasion were delivered tonight in Memorial hall.

The crowd this afternoon was so large and cramped that it got beyond control and the shrieking of women and children who were caught in the crush rapidly worked the crowd into a frenzy. Many women fainted and were carried out of the crowd by the police. Mrs. Eliza Louisa Mather and a relative were trampled on and had to be removed in an ambulance. Both will recover.

Throughout the exciting scene Mrs. Longworth remained cool and self-possessed, but afterward she said that it was the worst crush she had ever seen.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth had an exciting experience in escaping from the excited crowds. From the speakers' stand they climbed through a window overlooking the platform into the governor's office, but they were scarcely inside when the people began to surge through the doors from the corridors, and the office was quickly filled.

Congressman Longworth finally fought a way out for his wife from the Capitol and across Broad street into the [illegible] building. There they remained until the police cleared a way for a carriage which took the Congressman and his wife to the hotel. Later the Longworths took a train for Cincinnati.

The committee on arrangements had expected an enormous crowd, but in view of the solemnity and dignity of the occasion the committee believed that the people would easily be kept in restraint. Under ordinary circumstances the police arrangements would have been adequate, but the officers quickly found they were powerless to cope with the crowd.

Tiers of seats had been constructed across the main west front of the Capitol, with the speakers' stand in the center. Four thousand tickets for the stand [illegible] Rev. Washington Gladden [illegible] and all seats were occupied. The McKinley monument stands at the west entrance to the ground facing the stand, and the throng was packed into this space between the speakers' stand and the monument. The exercises began at 2:20 o'clock.

As a band was playing an overture, women in the crowd next to the speakers' stand began to scream and cry for help on account of the crush. Several women fainted and were carried to [illegible]. When the [illegible] arose to deliver the invocation, but he had spoken only a few sentences when the din of voices forced him to stop. Governor Harris then attempted to quiet the crowd.

"Keep back!" he shouted. "You are crushing the people in front to death." The governor's voice could not be heard ten feet away on account of the din. The commotion then became so alarming that those on the stand asked Mrs. Longworth to come forward, in the hope that a glimpse of her might pacify the crowd. She came to the front of the stand, and the crush became almost [illegible].

It was then decided to unveil the statue at once. Mrs. Longworth pulled a ribbon, which drew aside the flags covering the statue. A man who stood on another's shoulders grasped the ribbons, and they were quickly torn into fragments by relic seekers.

The crush was stopped for a few minutes, but as Mrs. Longworth sat down it was renewed, and she again went to the front of the platform and bowed to the throng. The committee on arrangements, having decided to defer the addresses until evening, allowed Mrs. Longworth to retire from the platform and announced the change in program. The crowd then dispersed.

The program of exercises was carried out at Memorial Hall tonight. The immense hall was filled with people. Governor Harris presided. The speakers were William R. Day, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; John W. Daniel, United States Senator from Virginia; General Joseph McKay of Brooklyn, N. Y., National Commander of the Veterans' Legion, and General Brown, Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mrs. McKinley was unable to attend the dedicatory exercises, but she was represented by her niece, Miss Ida McKinley Day.

GUILD MAKES NOMINATIONS.

Appoints Arthur P. Rugg of Worcester to Fill Vacancy on Bench.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Governor Guild today nominated Arthur P. Rugg of Worcester to be associate justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John Lathrop of this city. Mr. Rugg is associated in practice with former Congressman John R. Thayer. The selection of a member is somewhat new to Massachusetts. It is understood that the governor thought it best to make no changes in the superior bench, as that body was recently reorganized through the appointment of two new members.

Mr. Rugg is at present city solicitor of Worcester. He was born at Sterling, Mass., in 1862, and is a graduate of Amherst College and Boston University Law School. In 1895 Mr. Rugg was president of the Worcester common council, and from 1892 to 1897 was assistant district attorney for Worcester county.

Governor Guild also appointed today Joseph H. McNeill of Melrose to be chief inspector of the boiler inspection department of the state. This position was provided for by the last legislature.

GENERAL CORBIN RETIRES.

Sketch of His Long and Honorable Career in the Volunteer and Regular Service.

Lieutenant General Henry C. Corbin, the ranking officer of the army, was today placed on the retired list by operation of the law on account of age. His last duty was in command of the Northern division, with headquarters at St. Louis. He is succeeded in command of the division by Major General A. W. Greely, recently detached from command of the Pacific division at San Francisco.

General Corbin was born in Ohio September 15, 1842, and entered the volunteer service of the United States during the war of the Rebellion as a second lieutenant in the Eighty-third Ohio volunteer infantry, July 28, 1862. Before the organization was completed he was assigned to the Seventy-ninth Ohio volunteer infantry, serving therein as second and first lieutenant until November 14, 1863, when he was appointed a major of the Fourteenth United States colored infantry. In the following year he was promoted to lieutenant colonel, and September 23, 1865, made colonel of the Fourteenth United States Colored Infantry. He was honorably discharged from the volunteer service March 26, 1866, with the brevet of brigadier general, which honorary rank was bestowed upon him ten days prior to muster out, in recognition of meritorious services. For "gallant and meritorious services at Decatur, Ala.," the brevet of major was conferred, and for "gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Nashville, Tenn.," he received a brevet of lieutenant-colonel.

General Corbin.

Upon the recommendation of his military commanders he was commissioned May 11, 1866, a second lieutenant in the regular army, and assigned to the Seventeenth United States Infantry. He was appointed to a captaincy, in which grade he served 14 years, and assigned to the Thirty-eighth United States Infantry, December 31, 1866, and from that year to 1876 was continuously in command of his company at stations in the West; engaged in Indian campaigning and frontier service, mostly in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, and he conducted his company via the old Santa Fe trail from Fort Riley, Kan., to the mouth of the Rio Grande.

In June, 1880, he was appointed to the adjutant general's department, and served therein nine years in the grade of major, seven in the grade of lieutenant colonel, and two years in the grade of colonel, and was appointed adjutant general of the army February 25, 1898. During the Spanish-American war he was tendered the commission of major general of volunteers, but declined it. He held the office of adjutant general until April 25, 1900, when he was appointed lieutenant general of the army to succeed Lieutenant General John C. Bates.

Soon after the organization of the general staff, in 1903, General Corbin was placed in command of the Department of the East with headquarters at New York, and subsequently had command of the army in the Philippines. He remained at Manila about two years, when he was succeeded by Major General Wood. While there he assisted in the entertainment of Secretary Taft and party, including the President's daughter. Returning to the United States last spring, he declined the detail of chief of staff, to which he was entitled by his rank, and was assigned to the command of the northern division at St. Louis.

Major General Arthur MacArthur, commanding the Pacific division, becomes lieutenant general on the retirement of General Corbin, and Brigadier General Jesse M. Lee, commanding the department of the Visayas, is promoted to the grade of major general. General Bell, chief of staff, is the senior brigadier general and was entitled to promotion, but gave way in favor of General Lee, who will retire for age next January and probably would not have another chance of advancement.

MIDDLETOWN.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Springfield are guests of Mrs. Smith's niece, Mrs. George Wyatt, for a few days.

Owing to the heavy rains of Wednesday and Thursday nights, the brooks were swollen to such an extent as to move bridges which have never moved before from this cause. A bridge recently built across the brook at the Batonyl place on the private entrance from Valley road to the stables, which is used almost exclusively for the exercising of the horses, was swept from its original position. As the brook receded to its natural size yesterday afternoon several men attempted to replace the bridge. One young man in trying to assist stepped on one side of the bridge when it was nearly in position, and as the bridge tipped he lost his balance and fell into the water, which was deep enough to give him a thorough wetting. Other bridges were also removed and the roadways, in many places badly washed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Peckham have been entertaining Mrs. G. M. G. Hughes of Boston and Mrs. Sarah L. Carr of North Haverhill, N. H.

Among the damage done by the recent storm was the tearing up of the bridge near the Wyatt road. The boards were thrown across the road. The electric lights in the waiting room were also burned out. The wire fence at the home of Mr. Dennis Murphy on Mitchell's lane was twisted and flung in the road and the fence posts splintered and blackened. The greater portion of route No. 2, rural free delivery, received no mail Thursday morning, due to the lateness of the cars, which were unable to proceed during a portion of the morning, as the tracks were so badly washed and the rails so covered with gravel. Most of the telephone service has been suspended since Wednesday.

The schools closed at noon yesterday in order to permit the attendance of the children at the Newport County Fair.

Besides badly wrecking the windmill at the Bull estate, "Hoothlen," two large holes were found in the lawn 20 feet apart. One bolt followed along an iron pipe and came out in the boathouse, breaking the shaft in the upper part of the building. Considerable wreckage was found scattered about the lawn, the bungalow being slightly damaged.

The children at the Peabody School who by having the best standing were awarded the Newport County Fair tickets were Mary Souza, Marlian Rezendes, Willie Taber and Joseph Marks.

MAKING NEW RUBBER PLANTS.

[Garden Magazine.]

From a rubber plant which is growing in a living room, the best way to get new plants is by scoring the bark of the limb where you want the roots to grow, and covering the injury with sphagnum moss, which must always be kept damp. Roots will soon permeate the moss, when the limb should be cut off and potted.

NAVAL NOTES.

Captain W. P. Potter, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation, has left Washington for a two weeks' vacation with his family on Lake Champlain.

The Puritan has been placed out of commission at the navy yard, Washington, and turned over to the District of Columbia naval militia.

The Navy Department has advised Governor Terrell, of Georgia, that it will be impracticable to commission battleship Georgia in Georgia waters. The vessel must be placed in commission and fitted out for a cruise before she can be sent from Boston to Savannah.

Under an order issued by Secretary Bonaparte, "no alterations whatever affecting the design of the standard navy racing cutters shall be made to such boats after they are issued to ships," and standard racing cutters which have been altered are to be restored immediately to the condition in which they were received.

Secretary Bonaparte expects to settle with the President this week the make-up of the warship which is to take Mr. Roosevelt to Panama early in November. Either the Connecticut or the Louisiana is likely to go, and both may be sent. The Connecticut has an advantage in the way of superior accommodations, but there is great doubt whether she will be completed in time for her "shaking down" trip. The Louisiana lacks the accommodations, but will be ready in time. It is probable the Mayflower will be sent ahead, to be used in case the President cares to make any side trips in water too shallow for battleships.

Pay Inspector John A. Mudd has applied for assignment to duty in the New York navy yard, and it said his request will probably be granted.

Secretary Bonaparte has not yet set the date for the court martial of Captain Cowie, of the Alabama. Until this is done the bureau of navigation will not select the members of the court.

The armored cruiser division, consisting of the West Virginia, the Colorado, the Pennsylvania and the Maryland, which left here last Saturday, was before its departure detached from the Atlantic fleet. While on the way to Suez the ships are known as a special service squadron, and the title of Rear Admiral Brownson is commander of special service squadron. Upon passing Suez the vessels will be considered as attached to the Asiatic fleet and Rear Admiral Brownson will assume the title of commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet.

Secretary Root and his party visited the mint and the director of the institution presented Mrs. Root with a collection of coins issued since the independence of Peru was declared, and Secretary Root and his staff with medals in commemoration of the visit.

....During the Kaiser's recent visit to Fraulein Krupp the choral society of the Essen works sung before him. His Majesty afterward said, laughingly, to the conductor: "I ought to have your first tenor for my opera house." The tenor, a workman, named Moeller, has just been informed by Herr von Bohlen, Fraulein Krupp's fiance, that the funds necessary to give him a thorough training for the opera will be provided for him.

....Three men are now said to be under consideration for president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and one of the three will doubtless be recommended by the special committee having the matter in charge, within the next two weeks. If they cannot agree on one name, they may offer all three, leaving the final selection to the executive committee. A large number of names have been discussed and these three represent deliberation that has been going on all summer. Dr. Pritchett is expected to act as president until his successor is appointed, despite his acceptance of the presidency of the Carnegie Institute in New York.

Buttons and the Corselet Mode.

Buttons are finding an enthusiastic acceptance in the later order of things, and the dressmaker uses fully as many, if not more, than the tailor does. The imported model that forms the subject of illustration is fashioned in corselet style from a silk voile showing a small check in one of those indefinite shades that it is hard to tell whether they are blue or gray. This effect is heightened by the use of a burnished copper tint of taffeta for the foundation, while the little ribbon plisses are formed of a shot-gray and lavender weave.

The skirt is built up in corselet style to halfway between the bust and the natural waistline, backward-turning pleats affording fullness below the hip line. These pleats are deftly shaped in to accentuate the waistline, and the trimming buttons of lightly smoked pearl seem to hold them down. Above the deep hem at the foot there is a bread bias fold, this interlined with haircloth—the new linen warp kind—piped with an uncrowded fold of satin and rounded at intervals, buttons once more seeming to hold it in place. There is a clever little bolero top to the skirt, to be worn over a lingerie blouse when the gown is intended for outdoor use. The lining of feather-weight princesse haircloth serves to hold the sheer material in shape, and the sheer voile is tucked and shirred over this. The sleeve is the usual half-length puff, with a fancy cuff adorned with buttons and plaitings and a flat collar to match.

QUERIES.

[Baltimore American.]

I do not seek with curious eyes
To pry into fate's mysteries;
I do not wish on ages' lore
With grasp most arrogant to seize;
I would not raid the Delphic shrine
To win its knowledge for my own,
Nor would I force the Sphinx to yield
The secrets of its breast of stone.

But in all due humility,
I would, indeed, be glad to know
Why, when clouds darken all the sky,
And I abroad find I must go,
If I my umbrella take,
It clears up in a blaze of light;
But if I leave it, rains in floods,
Though I start out in sunshine bright.

I fain would meekly learn the cause
Why for a year no sudden guest
Will come, though much we long his stay
To cheer the life of our home nest;
But when we're ill, or cleaning times
Arrive, or cooks leave suddenly,
Then just as sure as hills or fate,
We have a lot of company.

And why—oh, why—when I am low
In funds, with pay day off a week,
And to get through, without a debt,
Economy strict I must seek,
Do friends select that special time
To catch me in some public spot
Where I would never dare refuse,
And borrow every cent I've got?

FANCIES.

The perils of your bedroom are
Too numerous to name;
Ghosts and banshees may be there
Concocting some wild game;
And burglars there may also crunch,

ASKS TRANSFER OF THAW CASE.

Counsel Hartridge Moves For Trial In Supreme Court.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Notice of a motion for an immediate trial and transfer of the case of Harry K. Thaw from general sessions to the supreme court was served upon Assistant District Attorney Garvin today by Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's counsel. The motion will be argued in special term, part 1, of the supreme court on September 24.

Attached to the motion papers are two affidavits made by Mr. Hartridge and John B. Gleason, his partner. Mr. Hartridge's affidavit asserts that the case is of the utmost importance, because of the great and continuous publicity given to it in the public press, and that various difficult questions of law will rise upon the trial which should be passed upon by the supreme court.

ON STATE REFORM PLATFORM.

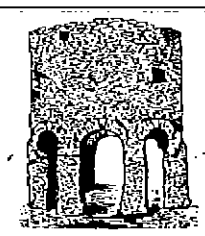

Gamaliel Bradford Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Gamaliel Bradford, publicist and anti-Imperialist, announced today his desire to be a citizens' candidate for governor this fall, upon a platform of state government reform. Mr. Bradford says: "For nearly 20 years the contest for this office has been made to turn almost exclusively upon a policy of maintaining or revising the high protective tariff. With this question the governor has officially nothing whatever to do." Mr. Bradford expresses his readiness to discuss state issues and makes the point that state problems of immense importance are pressing for solution.

TEN PAGES.

WILLS.

It is sometimes that few wills meet the approval of the disinterested community, to say nothing of the deeply interested persons who expected bequests and were disappointed. One man leaves all his property to his family and not a cent to public object; another leaves nearly everything to public objects and little or nothing to his family, and when these public objects are religious it is exasperating to note the indifference of a pious person to the words of St. Paul, "But if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."

The too common thing is for a wealthy person to leave all his property to his rich relations and nothing to those who need money. Why should the "poor relation" be an object of contempt and derision and disinheritance? The cases where he begs are certainly very few. One would suppose that a person having property to dispose of would take pleasure in providing comfort for persons of his own blood who have had their noses against the grindstone all their lives. Yet he seldom does. He prefers to give his money to a university or to endow Arctic research, or to bestow it on those who are already rich.

To remedy the general dissatisfaction caused by the way people dispose of their possessions a writer in the North American Review has proposed that the redistribution of wills should be entrusted to juries, two thirds to decide rather than to judges. This does not quite amount to allowing the jury to divide the estate as it pleases, but at practice it would come to about that. The jury would be instructed by rules of evidence and legal construction, and to all cases of doubt it would do what it thought the testator ought to have done and not what he appeared that he tried to do.

How common these cases of doubt are may be realized from the fact that the will of Jeremiah Sanford Jones Tilden made a will which the courts found to be invalid and only a few months ago a former chief justice of Pennsylvania died leaving a will which was intended to establish a great public institution, but proved to be invalid. Which great lawyers fail the ordinary citizen with the average lawyer who draws his will for him cannot expect to be very successful in making equal dispositions of his property as the courts will sustain.

Two thirds of a jury would make a more equitable and rational distribution of estates than a great proportion of testators do, for a man who is reasonably well balanced almost everybody else seems to be fantastic when he comes to leave his wealth. But it is not likely that so radical an execution will ever be made on the rights of a man to do what he will with his own, although after he is dead it often is his own and all civilized communities impose some limitations upon wills.

There is a good deal to commend the law in force, which secures the wife and children definite portions of an estate, and limits the amount of his estate which a man can give for public purposes often inspired by vanity rather than philanthropy or religion. Of the number of persons he leaves who have natural claims upon his wealth. All will admit that the wife and children have a natural claim, and it is not unreasonable to assume the brothers and sisters or even other kin of some sights, and if the community is going to interfere at all—and it does a little even now—it would seem to be justified in seeing that millions shall not be left to millionaires when there are near relatives who escape destitution, if they escape it at all, only by grinding work. It is not for the public interest that millions should be piled upon millions, and there is room here for some partial application of what the President said in his "muck rake" speech about the regulation of inheritances.

AUTUMNAL VACATIONS.

The conventional vacation season ends with August, but many are coming to realize that September and October offer many inducements to the lover of idleness or unaccustomed activity. The summer indeed presents its fullness of delights, but the fall too has sources of pleasure which tempt to outdoor life and enjoyment. When the heat of the mid-summer is tempered, the face of nature has assumed a wealth of color unknown in the heated period, vegetation is doubling its autumnal duty, the air is full of ozone and has a tonic quality grateful to the tired brain or body, and there are a thousand and one delights which cannot be found in the early days of the vacation period. September and October have a charm all their own for recreation and recuperation and every year more and more are learning this truth.

For many the pleasures of an autumn holiday are made impossible by the opening of school, which keeps the little ones at home, but for those who are not tied down by such cares there is no better time in all the year for a visit to the country or the mountains. Life at the seashore in these cooler months may be a little too rugged for all except the most enthusiastic, but in the interior, where the glories of the tender green of early spring-time or the brighter colors of midsummer can be compared with the rich hints of autumn, when the blood seems like wine in the veins. Then is the time to seek nature in her secret haunts and worship at her truest shrine.

It will take 5,000 tons of coal to send the new Cunard line turbine steamship Mauretania across the Atlantic, but with this enormous coal consumption and the turbine engine it is expected that the ship will make 25 knots an hour and wrest the supremacy of the trans-Atlantic run from the German steamships. The Mauretania is 785 feet long and 88 feet wide, with a moulded depth of 60 feet and a draught of 37 feet. An idea of the size of the vessel may be had from the statement that it would fill the entire width between Church and Frank streets and the distance between the centre of Thames street and the east side of Spring street, and if set on its keel would reach to half the height of Trinity Church spire.

Lieutenant General Arthur MacArthur is now head of the United States army, and a more popular commander it never had. He is a soldier tried and true on many a field of action. Entering the service as a boy of 17 in 1862, he served through the Civil war and demonstrated his fitness as a soldier, winning the medal of honor for conspicuous bravery in action, and two brevets for gallant and meritorious service. Since the war he has served in various capacities, receiving frequent promotions by right of merit. His services in the Philippines were difficult but well performed, and his promotion to the highest grade in the military service is richly deserved.

Colonel Winston Churchill is making a hard fight in New Hampshire to secure delegates to the Republican convention next Tuesday at Concord, to nominate a candidate for governor, and is succeeding so well that he will have so large a number pledged to his support that he will hold the balance of power. He has made a remarkable single-handed campaign and his success has given the Republican managers more trouble than they ever expected any one could give the machine. It may be a stumpole to Churchill in the convention.

President Palma of Cuba has now full power to prosecute the war against the insurrectionists in Cuba, and with President Roosevelt and the armed forces of the United States behind him there ought to be no delay in breaking up the revolt.

William R. Hearst is unquestionably the bugaboo of the New York newspapers. In one paper today six of the seven columns on one page have headlines in which the name of Hearst appears, and they are all against him.

President Roosevelt says he has a duty regarding Cuba which he cannot shirk, and the inference is unmistakable that he will use the forces of the United States to keep order in that island.

WHAT EDUCATION IS DOING FOR THE NEGRO.

[Albert Shaw in Review of Reviews.]

The wonderful opportunities that the South offers will inevitably attract from the outside a good deal of fresh capital and not a little sturdy labor, both American and European. Nevertheless, for the most part, the development that the South is destined to make in the next 25 years is going to be brought about through the efforts of the people now living in the South, with their sons and daughters, applying their own energy and skill, and using their own modest accumulations of productive capital.

Of these people now living in the South, nearly 10,000,000 belong to the colored race. Whatever fate may be theirs in the distant future, every one must know that for a long time to come these colored people must continue to do a large share of the hard work that gets with Southern economic advancement. They will till the soil, build the roads, fell the forests, work in the mills, dig in the mines, and labor at many trades and handicrafts. In any progressive region the largest item in the list of productive assets is the energy and skill of the workers, and this must be true of the South.

The training of the rising generation is more essential than anything else to the growth of the Southern states in all that is desirable by way of material progress. It is more important to train the white race than the black, because the white race is dominant, and upon its well-being depends the maintenance of conditions under which other races may also hope to improve and prosper. If it were possible to do only the one thing and not the other, then it would be better for the colored race that all educational effort should be concentrated upon the training of white children. For any one who understands the problems of the South must know very well that to concentrate educational effort upon the children of the colored race, and to neglect meantime the white children, would be not only harmful to the negroes, but disastrous. The dominant race must be well trained, or the race that is inferior in numbers and position will suffer deeply in a hundred ways.

It happens, however, that there is no need to neglect the colored race while training the white children, and the disposition on the part of a few people to divert the policy of certain Southern states in such a direction is strongly condemned by the controlling forces of public opinion. Everywhere the Southern states are providing for negro education. The present wealth of the South is not so great as to render it easy to raise the taxes necessary for the support of two sets of schools. All the more credit, therefore, is due to the Southern people for the manner in which they are endeavoring to provide education for the colored children.

A GYPSY WEDDING.

[Leslie Parton Tyree in Recreation.]

Were you ever at a Gypsy wedding? Well, never mind, all guests are welcome, even the hated gringo, if he brings plenty of silver coins to exchange for weak, red wine in which to drink the bride's health. Outside the marriage tent a solemn company of men and women, brave in Gypsy finery of scarlet shawls and brilliant handkerchiefs, are dancing, in the mud, their hands interlaced after the fashion of children playing ring-around-the-rosy. These are the bride's kinspeople. The parents of the groom stand apart before their tent, apparently unconscious that a wedding is in progress.

Lift the tent-flap and you will see a curious sight. On the floor is spread a red-barred table-cloth and on it are meat and wine and many Romany delicacies. A merry crowd of young folk, the friends of the bride and groom, are feasting, laughing and singing with the joy of youth and irresponsibility. Standing at the back of the tent, totally ignored by the assembled company, are the bride and groom. The girl, full bosomed, strong and beautiful, is in tears—one end of her white tulle veil drawn across her face to hide its sadness. She leans on the arm of a dark, slender boy, who looks anything but happy. The bride is clad in a flaring robe of red velvet, but the groom's only concession to this ceremony is a more than usually gaudy neckerchief, a new gray felt hat and a clean shirt.

Presently the headsman of the tribe—whose office is now obsolete—tosses a sharpointed axe out into the crowd and himself emerges from the tent with a headless chicken, its blood dripping on the ground. This is the final ceremony. The young people are now married and the bride leaves her parents and her own tribe forever. Perchance in after years she may pass her people on the road—but from their tents she goes forever.

There is no joy in marriage and courtship for the Romany girl. She weds at her parents' command and is not allowed to speak to the man who will make or mar her future on any topic pertaining to their life together until their marriage. A Romany girl who marries outside her caste is thrust outside of her tribe forever. She cannot marry a house dweller and remain in the tents of Romany.

Rush to Secure Naturalization Before New Law Applies.

Providence Unions Cancel Endorsement of All Labor Papers.

The new naturalization law is to go into effect September 28 and the federal and superior courts in Providence are busy with the applications to be admitted to citizenship filed for action under the old law. Some 250 petitions have been recently filed in the superior court and about 50 that have been pending for some time will come before the court at the hearings next week. The time for filing the applications for first papers has passed if the petitions are to be acted upon at these hearings, as ten days' notice is required. One reason for the rush to become American citizens under the present practice is that the qualifications for citizenship will be more restricted under the new law. It will be necessary for the applicant on and after the twenty-eighth inst. to be able to speak the English language and to write his own name. The intent of the new law is to make the practice of fraud in naturalization proceedings next to impossible.

Two important moves were made at the meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Union of Providence last evening. The more important was the appointment of a committee, consisting of representatives of the Coal Teamsters' Union, the Painters' Union, the Stationary Engineers, the Steamfitters' Union and the Electrical Workers' Union, to find ways and means by which a building trades council, as a section of the Central Trades and Labor Union, may be formed. The other important action was the introduction by William Edwards of a resolution cancelling all previous endorsements of labor papers. This action rescinds the endorsement by the Central Trades and Labor Union of the only daily newspaper in Providence bearing the union label. The fact that this had actually occurred was not discovered until after the resolution had been passed and the meeting had formally adjourned.

James S. Slater, town clerk of North Smithfield, recently discovered what he believes an important change in the general laws of the state. The legislature April 20, 1906, passed an amendment to section 2, chapter 102, of the General Laws for the suppression of intemperance. The amendment provided that before a license be granted the applicant should give a penal bond for the sum of $1,000, with at least two sureties, which sureties shall be residents of the town or city where the license proposes to do business. Under the old laws, surety company bonds were accepted, which made it convenient for the liquor dealers. Mr. Slater was told that the Woonsocket license commission had accepted surety company bonds. Walter Thayer, clerk of the board, states that while the amendment of the law was not known in Woonsocket, no license has been granted since the passing of the amendment.

The first meeting of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the annual parade of the Rhode Island Councils, Knights of Columbus, was held last evening in Providence. The interest in this event was manifested by the large attendance of members, nearly every Council being represented. The committee is comprised of the state officers, district deputies and the Grand Knights of the various Councils throughout the state, 21 in all. Every member present reported that the members of the Councils were enthusiastic over the parade, and from all indications there will be in line more members of the order than ever before seen in Providence. The parade will be held in that city Sunday, October 21, Sunday being the day always chosen for the members to appear.

The Olneyville district of Providence was the scene of a triple incendiary blaze shortly before midnight last night and had it not been for the timely discovery of the fires there would have been serious results. As on previous occasions during the past six weeks, the spot selected for the fires was a dark and lonely place, the buildings old and unoccupied. In close proximity to the buildings which have been fired are dwellings houses occupied by many families and if the blaze had communicated to these it is doubtful if every one would have escaped.

The enrolment of pupils in the public schools of Providence was completed yesterday. The total number attending is 25,241. The enrolment for the fall term in 1905 was 24,907, making the increase for this year 337. Superintendent Small's estimate of the attendance was between 25,000 and 26,000 and the increase from 300 to 500.

A SUCCESSFUL FACTORY SCHOOL.

[Review of Reviews.]

Some excellent trade schools have been built up in this country during recent years, each ministering to the special needs of its own constituency, but it is clearly impossible for most of them to adapt their training closely to the requirements of the modern factory. The best fitting school for factory positions, in the opinion of many factory managers, is the factory itself. Some of the leading manufacturing corporations of the country have undertaken to provide schooling for their youthful employes. To this end a modified apprenticeship system has been evolved, under which all labor is paid and a definite amount of instruction is given.

One of the oldest systems of this kind is that in force at the works of R. Hoe & Co., the printing-press manufacturers of New York city. In that establishment from 200 to 300 youths between the ages of 16 and 21 are regularly employed. These apprentices all enter into a legal agreement with the firm to serve a full term of five years, and this agreement is signed by the lad's parents in each case. All those who show enough proficiency in their work to give promise of further improvement are admitted to the school maintained by the firm, from October 1 to May 31, between 5 and 7 p. m. on each working day. Most of the apprentices, having come from the grammar grade in the public schools, are at first drilled in the three "R's" and English grammar, supplemented by mechanical drawing.

Gradually the ability to draw up specifications for machinery is required. Practical instruction in the details of factory organization is imparted, and the pupils are equipped for managerial positions. The apprentices are stimulated to ask questions about their daily work, and those who show special aptitude are permitted and encouraged to pursue their studies further, availing themselves, for instance, of the technical courses offered at Cooper Institute.

The individual members of the firm of Hoe & Co. are personally interested in the work of the school, which is directed by a head master and four teachers. Prizes are awarded each year to the boys making the best grades. The school history of every apprentice is methodically recorded from the beginning of his work, all indications of progress being specifically noted. Every opportunity is given the boy to prove his own abilities. The management keeps up systematic correspondence with parents and guardians, very much as is the head of a private school would do. Many foremen, engineers, and high-class machinists now employed throughout the country are graduates of this technical school, which was the first institution of its kind to be established by a manufacturing concern.

PRESIDENT MAY SHOW CLEMENCY.

The President will probably exercise his authority and spare four or five midshipmen now recommended for dismissal, from that result of their misconduct. There are seven cases in all before the Navy Department ready for the consideration of the President. They come from the Naval Academy, and are the first to be submitted under the so-called anti-hazing law, although none of them are in any way related to that particular offense. Indeed, the superintendent of the Academy says there is no more hazing.

The present culprits are those who have been guilty of various minor infractions of the rules of the institution. Each has had a chance to be heard in his own behalf and to offer whatever defense he may. Seven of the cases considered by the head of the Academy are regarded as sufficiently serious to go to the Secretary with a recommendation for dismissal, in action which must be taken by the President. The latter will undoubtedly exercise clemency in a number of the cases, turning the boys back one year to the next lower class. Two of the cases will doubtless be approved for dismissal.

Office of the Clerk of the Probate Court of the Town of Portsmouth, R. I. September 7th, A. D. 1906.

W. I. Holmes of the City of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts has this day filed in this office his petition in writing praying that himself or some other suitable person may be appointed administrator of the estate of Elizabeth F. MARINE OFFICERS DETACHED.

Ordered from the Training Station and War College, in Readiness for Duty in Cuba.

The preparations for the crisis in Cuba were felt at the Training Station this morning, Major Theodore Porter Kane, commanding the marine guard there, being detached by wire and ordered to report for duty at Norfolk, Va. He received orders at 6:30 o'clock and left on the 10 A. M. Wickford boat, his orders calling for immediate movement. Lieutenant-Colonel George Barnett and Major Dion Williams, also of the marine corps but in attendance at the War College, also received orders detaching them, to report at the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia. No orders for men have been received.

The guard at the station now numbers 103 men, larger than it has been for some time but no larger than the duty at the Station demands. It is hardly likely that orders for any of these men will be given, except in case of extreme emergency, as a good portion of the guard have but recently returned from Panama, more or less affected by the malaria of that district, and are now supposed to be recuperating, doing light duty in the meantime.

The detachment of Major Kane leaves Lieutenant Walter Edwin Nos. just ordered to the Station, in command, with Lieutenant Edward Sears Yates next in command.

THREE DEFENDANTS FINED.

Two Others in the Block Island Malicious Mischief Cases Discharged.

The trial of the Block Island case in the district court yesterday lasted until 6:15 o'clock, and then the defense had stated that it would not put on all its witnesses because of the lateness of the hour. While the defendants admitted being in the place on the night in question, it was claimed that they did not participate in any of the deeds termed in the warrants as malicious mischief. They had been at the tables and been refused beer, saw the Portuguese chef with a big knife and saw a chair hurled at him, and thought it well to get outside the building. When outside they heard the smashing of glass and later the smashing of vessels containing liquor, on the railway tracks. They were ignorant as to who did any of the smashing. The prosecution did not care to put in evidence in rebuttal.

Mr. Sheffield for the defense in his argument suggested that the damage had been elaborated and that the prosecution had trumped up a story to cover the illegitimate purpose of the place. His remarks aroused the ire of ex-Senator Champlin, one of the counsel and one of the owners of the place, and he declared that the statements were false and had to be pacified by Mr. Barney, his associate. Mr. Barney, on the other hand, in his argument suggested that the defense had not confined itself to statements of fact.

The court said he did not think the charges had been made out against Abraham L. Paine and Owen Mitchell, and he would discharge them. Jeremiah B. Allen, John W. Coe and Edward C. Allen, 2d., he fined $25 and costs each. They appealed and J. Eugene Littlefield was accepted as surety for their appearance before the superior court on the first Monday in October.

The witnesses for the defense made the trip over on a schooner, and so were prepared to return to the island last evening after the trial.

The case against Harry Sedgwick, charged with overspeeding an automobile, was continued, to follow the civil docket Tuesday, owing to inability to have the hearing of the appointed time.

COLLECTING THE CITY TAXES.

The tax collector has been doing something this week, and as a result the city treasurer has a good bank account. This evening the tax collection will close, and it remains to be seen if the political parties will pay the political taxes, as in years past. If they do not there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in certain quarters and a falling off of property voters.

Since Monday, and not including today, the tax collections have been $216,957.50, divided among the several days as follows: Monday, $12,398.10; Tuesday, $99,002.50; Wednesday, $17,544.40; Thursday, $99,731; Friday, $28,181.30. Thursday was the b'g day. This does not mean that a larger number of taxes were paid but that more big taxes came in. Things are still busy at the collector's office and the money is still rolling in, but there is not the crowd of waiters usual on the last day.

JAMESTOWN.

The postponed serial and the last race of the season of the Conanicut Yacht Club, was sailed yesterday afternoon in a moderate, northerly breeze. Only two classes entered and there were but two boats in the 25-foot class, and three of the 21-footers. The boats were sent over course No. 5, which is triangular in shape, but with the wind as it was yesterday the boats did not have a beat to windward. It being a reach to the first turn, the spar buoy off the south end of Goat Island; from there to the next turn off Potter's Point they were able to lay their course close hauled. From here it was a run home with spinnakers set, the boats going twice around. At the start the Hawk had a good lead of the Tacew, but was overhauled on the first round and did not regain the lead. In the 21-foot class Miss. Woodward, in the Bohemian, took the lead at the start and held it to the finish.

The summary:

25-foot Knockabouts.

	Elasped Time.	Cor. time.
Tacew,	1:33:01	1:32:52
Hawk,	1:36:01	1:36:01

21-foot Knockabouts.

Bohemian,	1:29:18	1:29:18
Comforter,	1:31:09	1:31:09
Grace,	1:33:23	1:31:08

The Comforter and Grace were disqualified for taking aboard some of their crew after the preparatory gun had been fired.

This race finishes the weekly races of the club, and the boats to win the cups and prizes are as follows:

25-Foot Knockabouts.

Hawk first. Tacew second.

One-Design Knockabouts.

Coyote first. Vanken second.

21-Foot Knockabouts.

Bohemian first. Comforter second.

Half-Raters.

Snipe first. Wenonah second.

The contest for the championship cup for the fleet was close and was won by the Snipe of the smallest class, the half-raters, which had 16 points to its credit; the Coyote was next with 14½ points and the Bohemian next with 14.

During Thursday morning's storm the lightning struck at Beavertail. The Gaelet Fishing Club house, unoccupied, was hit by a bolt which tore off a few shingles on the outside, but ran around generally on the inside of the building and splintered the woodwork. It then followed the wires to the butler's house, which stands only a short distance away. Another, or the same bolt, struck the flag pole in front of the club house, carrying away the topmast and splintering the pole.

Two Japanese who were taking photographs of the fortifications from various points of vantage, attracted some little attention near the west ferry yesterday afternoon.

Launch Sergeant Powell, connected with Fort Greble, is having a new motor put in. The old one of 4-horse power is to be replaced by one of 8.

The shipments of peaches which usually cross the ferries from Summerstown to Newport at this time of the year, are conspicuous by their absence, the peach crop on the mainland being very light.

The telegraph offices will close tonight for the season.

Mr. Richard Wainwright, who is on the Louisiana, was guest of his parents, Captain and Mrs. Wainwright, at their cottage on the shore north, while his ship was coaling yesterday at Bradford.

Mrs. and Miss Worthington left last evening for New York, where they will meet Mr. Worthington, who will accompany them to Hot Springs, Va., to spend the remainder of the season.

Mrs. J. B. Lippincott of Philadelphia, who has spent the summer abroad, is expected here on her arrival from Europe Monday, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wharton.

MR. VANDERBILT'S FIND AT SYRACUSE.

In addition to the pair of horses, High Boy and Mollie Darling, which Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt purchased at the Syracuse horse show, he picked up a horse which is regarded as a genuine find. Mr. Charles H. Wilson, jilted a cab to take to the show grounds, and attached to it was a likely gray horse which impressed in Mr. Wilson's estimation as it went out. At the grounds Mr. Wilson secured an option on the horse, which was followed by a purchase by Mr. Vanderbilt. The Vanderbilt horses will be next shown at the Westchester county fair at White Plains, N. Y.

TUNNELING THE SIERRA.

[The Technical World Magazine.]

It has recently been reported that a tunnel six miles long is to be constructed in California for the purpose of giving the Central Pacific easier grades in the Sierra Nevada. The Central Pacific is now obliged to climb to an elevation of 7,017 feet in crossing the Sierra. The proposed tunnel would make it possible to cross the range without going more than 4,000 feet above sea level. It is estimated that a saving in operating expenses would be effected amounting to fully $100,000 a year. As the improvement would cost $10,000,000, the economy would be relatively small, not exceeding 1 per cent on the required outlay. There would be another advantage, however, for it would better enable the Central Pacific to meet the threatened competition of the Western Pacific, which will go in higher in the Sierra than 5,000 feet above the sea. Three years would be needed for the completion of the work, but it is expected that the effort of the Central Pacific's rival to divert traffic from the old route would be thwarted.

At present there are only two railway tunnels of consequence in the United States. One takes the Great Northern through the Cascade range and is three miles long. The other, nearly five miles in length, reaches through Hoosac mountain. The one which is to be cut in California will surpass them both in extent, though it will be much shorter than those which run under the Mont Cenis, St. Gothard and Simplon passes in Europe.

When the Central and Union Pacific roads, which together gave the railways of the East the first through route to the Golden Gate, were begun, the assurance of patronage was very different from what it is now. Cutting holes through the mountains may be a remunerative venture today. At that time it must have looked like reckless waste.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 15.—The police have arrested 14 revolutionists in Peterhof, including several students. The fact that one of the prisoners was a court lackey gave rise to a rumor that a plot against the emperor had been discovered, but there is no definite information to this end.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Sept. 15.—Addressing a conference of the commanders of the local volunteers today, War Secretary Haldane said he believed the time is nearer than most people think when the work of compelling a reduction of the crushing burden of armaments would be undertaken. Great Britain is trying to give a lead in that direction, but other great nations must co-operate. In the meantime Great Britain cannot afford to place herself in a weak position.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 15.—The first cargo of flitched halibut of the season was brought into port today by schooner Oregon, which brought in 80,000 pounds from Labrador waters. The Oregon reports that she sighted Boston schooner Massachusetts on the fishing grounds. The Massachusetts reported having been caught in a severe storm which blew her far from her fishing grounds, and caused her to lose nearly all her gear. At the time the Massachusetts was sighted she was making for Newfoundland for repairs.

PRESIDENT TOBIN GAINING.

Hickey Still Leading But With a Reduced Majority.

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 15. Returns received during the night from the balloting for general president of the Boot & Shoe Workers Union, by the Times show that Thomas H. Hickey of this city leads over John F. Tobin, the president incumbent, although by a reduced majority from yesterday's returns. With 52 places yet to be heard from, Hickey has 5,101 votes and Tobin 5,056. Hickey supporters claim that their man has been elected, while President Tobin refuses to concede his opponent's victory. Yesterday's figures showed Hickey leading in the proportion of 2 to 1, but as the ballots come in from distant places Tobin has shown a large gain. The shoe workers cast their votes Thursday, but complete tabulated returns are not expected to be issued from the general offices of the union in Boston for about a week.

NORTH SYDNEY, Cape Breton, Sept. 15.—A vessel which Captain Mallman of schooner C. W. Mills believes was four masted schooner Edwin R. Hunt, three weeks overdue from Boston for St. Ann's, Cape Breton, was sighted by the Mills Wednesday last, 200 miles southeast of this port, running under bare poles. The following day the vessel was sighted again, under reduced sail and heading for the Cape Breton coast. The Mills arrived today from Madeira. Much anxiety has been felt regarding the Hunt, which is owned in Bath, Me., and which it is believed was blown far out of her course by the recent gales.

WAS PUPIL OF WERNZ.

Prominent Catholic Says General's Beliefs Are of Middle Ages.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Count Von Hompesch, a member of a Catholic family, has written a letter to the Liberale Nueste Nachrichten concerning Father Wernz, the newly elected general of the Jesuits. The count says he was a pupil of Wernz's in the early 80's, and that the beliefs of the new general are those of the Middle Ages.

"The comment in Germany on the new general of the Jesuits ridicules the view which is apparently current in France, that the selection of a German as head of the order was influenced by the Vatican's relations with France.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Float the Manchuria.

HONOLULU, Sept. 15.—An effort was made to float the stranded steamship Manchuria yesterday, but it was unsuccessful. The vessel was moved 250 feet and her position was improved. LAST OF LECTURE SERIES.

Address by Mrs. Lucia Gale Barber on "Concentration and Relaxation," Illustrated by Music.

The last of Mrs. Lucia Gale Barber's drawing room lectures was held at Mrs. Richard C. Derby's home on Old Beach Road yesterday afternoon, a large number being present. The subject was "Concentration and Relaxation." Mrs. Barber in opening stating that concentration—the power to fix one's mind on a given thing to the exclusion of everything else—was the secret of success in everything. Concentration is of value in regulating the blood supply and also in strengthening the muscles and the nerves. Through the regulation of the blood supply co-ordination is effected between the brain and the muscles. It is possible to send any amount of energy to any part of the body through thought. For example, if one thinks of his arm he can feel the energy tingling in it. Many diseases are caused by improper blood supply, but through physiological concentration these may be prevented. Defective children also may be developed.

Relaxation follows concentration immediately, the ability to let go being as necessary as the ability to concentrate. Physical concentration aids greatly in a lifetime [illegible] the habit of [illegible] part of the body [illegible] control of the nervous forces. Most of us live in three tenses —the past, the present, and the future; and this sort of living dissipates nervous force. As early as possible one should fix his attention on what he is doing for character building and for the storing of nervous force. There is never any return of vital force in thinking of the past, and the value of learning to concentrate on the thing of the moment, which will determine the future, cannot be over-estimated. Worry, anxiety, the borrowing of trouble and solicitude are a drain of the nervous force, and prohibit us from using ourselves as well as we can.

The difficulty lies in our not using the brain, nerves and muscles [illegible]. A variety of interests and [illegible] strengthens us physically. [illegible] is less often caused by an excess of brain work than by a lack of proper nourishment, of sleep, [illegible] exercise and of a cheerful [illegible]. The brain is the strongest organ of the body and is starved [illegible]. Lack of interest in things in old age is usually caused by a lack of good brain organization and of sufficient interests in youth. [illegible] week is also important for [illegible] is important for children to do muscular work, as this [illegible] the brain cells, provided the work is purposeful.

Relaxation, the releasing of all muscular efforts is most important. Relaxation physically and mentally by which [illegible] of everything we want to [illegible] of the will. Relaxation of body and mind, when properly taken, [illegible] greater power than our [illegible] mind, and refreshment for [illegible] a better way. Mrs. Barber [illegible] of freeing one's self from [illegible] by relaxing the [illegible] and filling the mind with tranquilizing thoughts, [illegible] by cutting stillness in one's self and by stopping everything once in a while and keeping perfectly still. We need take time for concentration and relaxation to fit us for what we have to do in the world. At night we must get rid of what we have done during the day that mind and soul [illegible]. As grief is a greater shock to the system than illness, relaxation is very necessary in seasons of grief. Physically, concentration and relaxation are the control of the nerves and muscles and of thought and feeling, and morally and spiritually they are abiding faith in a Heavenly Father and strength from an inner centre.

At the conclusion of her lecture Mrs. Barber, to the music of Nevin's "Gondolier," "The March of the Grail" —Parsifal, "Toreador Song"—Carmen; and other selections illustrated her [illegible]. She also repeated some of the movements she gave in the previous lectures and answered several questions.

Mrs. Barber's lectures have been a delight to all who have heard them. Her poses, exercises and movements have been graceful and helpful; the music by Mr. Boote has been admirably played, and above all, the close connection between body, mind and spirit has been illuminatingly shown and beautifully illustrated.

Among the large number at the lecture yesterday were Mrs. Richard C. Derby, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. William B. [illegible], Miss Ida Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Emmons, Mrs. S. E. Huntington, Mrs. Rufus E. Darrah, Mrs. Theodore K. Gibbs, Miss Burleigh, Mr. Thomas Pettit, Rev. William Samuel Jones, Mrs. Frank M. Greene, Mrs. Harry Wilks and Miss E. H. Waring.

VANDERBILT HORSES WIN.

At the closing exhibition of the Syracuse horse show yesterday, Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's horses won first prize in every class for harness horses except one, and in that class the pair won which were shown by Dr. J. O. Allrich and [illegible]. Three out of the five championships were won by the [illegible] Oakland Farm. In the [illegible] harness horse over [illegible] the first prize was won by [illegible]. The championship for horses [illegible] exceeding 15.1 hands was won by Lady Kathryn; the championship for horses over 15.1 hands was won by The Youngster with Polly Prim getting the reserve, and the championship for pairs not exceeding 15.2 hands was won by Pettit and Sweet Marie with The Youngster and Polly Prim getting the reserve. The championship for pairs not exceeding 15.1 hands was won by Dr. J. O. Allrich's High [illegible] and Miss Dorles, which Mr. Vanderbilt has purchased.

During the week Mr. Vanderbilt's horses have won the championship, [illegible] challenge cup, one [illegible] two third prizes, the second and third prizes being won in classes in which his horses also took the first prizes.

ADMIRAL GOODRICH TO SUCCEED SANDS.

Rear Admiral Caspar F. Goodrich is said to be scheduled to succeed Rear Admiral James H. Sands as head of the Naval Academy on the latter's retirement next year. Rear Admiral Sands is regarded as one of the most successful superintendents the academy ever had, and it is believed by naval officers who know him well that Rear Admiral Goodrich will be not less successful.

Admiral Goodrich is well known in this city, where for several years he was located as inspector in charge of the Torpedo Station, and later as president of the Naval War College.

Copyright Treaty Between United States and Sweden Opposed.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 15.—The government has referred the invitation tendered by the United States to Sweden to conclude a copyright treaty to the Publicist club. A lively debate on the subject last night showed that a majority of the members were against the treaty. The sale of books to the United States is a valuable source of income to the Swedish-American publishers, and it was contended that the treaty would kill this business.

CONDUCTOR DISARMED ONE MAN.

Four Masked Robbers Attempted to Hold Up a Train.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 15.—Four masked men attempted to hold up a southbound passenger train on the Rock Island railroad, two miles north of Peoria last night. Conductor Robert Murray disarmed one of the men after being struck on the head and the robbers fled. There were 100 persons on the train. Policemen are searching the woods for the desperadoes.

The robbers placed railroad ties on the track and brought the train to a standstill. Then then, at the point of revolvers, commanded the engineer and the firemen to remain on the locomotive. Running back to the front end of the smoking car the desperadoes mounted the platform with drawn revolvers. Conductor Robert Murray met them at the car door. One of the bandits pointed a revolver at the conductor's face. Murray was struck over the wrist and the head with a club, but the robbers became alarmed at unexpected resistance and fled. The passengers were not molested. The train came on to Peoria and reported the affair.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Arrangements have been practically completed for the annual meeting of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, to be held at Williamstown and North Adams next month. The meeting will last from October 9 to 12, and the sessions will be about evenly divided between the two places. Additional significance attaches to the event from the fact that the second day of the meeting will be observed as Haystack centennial day, in commemoration of the beginning of the foreign missionary movement in the shade of a haystack in Williamstown, where a monument has since been erected.

Many missionaries of the board will be present to deliver addresses, and an interesting feature will be the attendance of a number of native representatives of the board, who will bring greetings from India, China, Africa, Bohemia, Mexico, Japan, Ceylon and Turkey. Among the American speakers will be President Henry Hopkins of Williams College, President William J. Tucker of Dartmouth College, President George A. Gates of Pomona College, California, President Henry C. King of Oberlin College and Professor Harlan P. Beach of Yale University.

LAUNCH COLLIDES WITH SCOW.

Four Persons Drown and Remainder of Party Narrowly Escapes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Two women and one man were drowned in the lower bay early today when naphtha launch Sausage, after having drifted helplessly all night with disabled engines, collided with the second scow of a tow in charge of an unknown tug, and capsized.

Three men and one woman of the original party of eight in the launch were rescued. They declined to give their correct names and refused absolutely to divulge the identity of the drowned persons. The rescued were landed at Stapleton, Staten Island, and are under treatment at the Marine hospital. Launch Sausage is said to be the property of W. W. David, of Jamaica, L. I., who, when rescued, gave the name of Dodge. The rescued woman said her name was Miss Cook. Both Dodge and Miss Cook said they would not tell the names of the drowned persons until they could break the news themselves to the families affected by the tragedy.

The Sausage was returning from Sheepshead bay last night, when the engines suddenly gave out. All night long the heavily laden launch drifted about the bay. At daybreak a tug with two scows in tow was seen approaching. The men and women called for help, but say the turbaut captain merely waved his hand to them and passed by. The tug had run so close to the helpless launch that the second scow struck the Sausage and overturned her. Every one was thrown into the water, but four of the party managed to cling to the upset launch until rescued. Even after the collision the tug towing the scows proceeded without offering assistance.

ACTRESS WEDS NOBLEMAN.

Announcement of Marriage of Miss Blanche Jewett to Baron Hofeld.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 15.—Blanche Weston Jewett of this city was reported in the papers of August 28 as having been married to Baron Hofeld, July 18, in New York. Miss Jewett formerly resided in this city, where she passed her girlhood and subsequently went on the stage as an actress in the "Nancy Brown" company. While traveling with that company she met and married Dr. W. L. Malaber, from whom she was afterward legally separated.

During Miss Jewett's residence in this city she was known as an elocutionist, and it was from this profession that she went to the stage. It had been expected that she would appear this season in the "Clansman" company, and the news of her having become a baroness consequently occasioned not a little surprise. She has not lived in Lowell for four years.

FINAL REGATTA ON SEEKONK.

Closing of Canoe Racing Season of 1906, at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 15.—Today marks the closing of the canoe racing season of 1906, and this afternoon on the Seekonk the final regatta of the season will be held. Not only are the fastest and most expert canoeists of this state to take part in the several races, but from Massachusetts come some of the fastest men in New England to participate. Among the clubs to be represented are all the local organizations, as well as the Medford Boat Club of Medford, Mass., the Wahewawa Canoe Club of Auburndale, Mass., the Quinobequin Canoe Club of Dedham, Mass. There will be races in singles, tandems and club fours in different classes, and also racing in shells for members of the Narragansett club exclusively. This regatta will decide the possession of the big cups offered for competition among the local clubs.

Death of Former American Medical Director.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Phillips S. Wales, formerly medical director in the American navy, died here today of cancer. The body will be embalmed for burial at Annapolis.

M. Durnovo in Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—M. Durnovo, formerly Russian minister of the interior, is at present in Berlin. He declares his visit is of a strictly private nature.

Opening of Big Game Season.

ST. JOHN, New Brunswick, Sept. 15.—A large number of Americans have arrived in the provinces this week to hunt moose and caribou. The big game season opened today. Moose are reported plentiful in York, Restigouche, Kent, Northumberland and Victoria counties.

KINDS OF TEA THAT WILL GROW IN THIS COUNTRY.

Will the tea plant prosper in the United States? As the reader may already know, tea, like lettuce or potatoes, is a general term, covering several sorts or varieties. Experiments have been carried out in a practical scale at Summerville, Texas, with many of the most important sorts. A choice Chinese sort, Dragon's Pool tea, known in its own land from the celebrated garden furnishing it, has proved very successful. This is a hardy plant, of medium size, good yielding capacity, and capable of being made into excellent green and oolong teas. It averages from 250 to 800 pounds of dried tea per acre annually.

A second and very useful sort is a variety widely introduced into this country many years ago, known as Assam Hybrids. This is a large variety, thought to have been produced by crossing the large-leafed Assam form and the Chinese. This tea, perhaps partly because it has long been in this country, grows very rapidly and produces, when at its best, as high as 500 pounds of dried tea per acre annually. The leaf has a chemical constitution differing from the Chinese variety in such a way as to make it best fitted for the making of black tea.

Another very valuable variety for this country comes from the hill country of India, and is called after the city of the region, Darjeeling. Darjeeling tea gives an average yield of 350 pounds or more per acre and has the valuable property of being convertible into a black, green or oolong tea. Kangra tea another valuable north Indian hill variety, and Japanese tea, characterized here by its rather scanty yield of very high quality, have given good results. With Formosa and Ceylon varieties, from high altitudes (above 6,000 feet), no convincing tests have yet been concluded. It is clear that Summerville is too cold for the Ceylon plants from lower altitudes. Since this variety is a great producer, success in growing it is much to be desired. It is clearly demonstrated that soil and climate are favorable to the luxurient development of several of the most useful varieties of tea, and the production at Summerville fully equals and, in some cases, surpasses the production on like areas in the Orient. The raw material of a tea industry may, therefore, be produced in favorable parts of the South. The plant will grow.

A further experiment, now being carried on in Texas, near Wharton, by the Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with Mr. A. P. Borden, will indicate how far success at Summerville is due to local conditions. The American Tea Growing Company, a private concern, with which the department is also in co-operation, has gone into the production of tea commercially, in Colleton county, South Carolina. Its plantations have not been completely plucked, but the indications are distinctly favorable. Granting a continuance of favorable conditions in Colleton county, we shall soon have tea in a coastal situation.

MEN'S POCKET KNIVES.

(Washington Star.)

"A man's pocket knife is his Fidus Achates," said the clerk at the cutlery counter of one of Washington's department stores, as she handed out a tray of imported pocket knives and laid them on the counter for the purchaser's inspection.

"No, we do not handle American-made goods at all in this line, nor in scissors. There is no demand for them in the trade that we have, and, although in tariff speeches in campaigns there is a great deal said about the home-made article being as good as the imported we'll have to let it go as a tariff speech, because in high-grade goods such as you are now examining it isn't.

"The best cutlery steel comes now from the same old place whence it has always hailed—Sheffield, England. Although we may send steel rails from Pittsburg to Liverpool, the Sheffield cutlers have the drop on the world as to cutlery steel. The American-made pocket knife is a good article for the money it costs, however.

"A pocket knife is one of the most appropriate gifts that can be made to a man—he esteems a fine pocket knife as does a woman a set of furs. Women, however, are chary in giving pocket knives and sharp instruments to their sweethearts because of the feminine superstition that such articles may cut the bonds of love or friendship. I can't vouch for the truth of the superstition, but I can assert that women believe in it and that men don't.

"Another thing about our sex in the purchase of pocket knives, for, despite the superstition, a great many ladies buy pocket knives for their men friends, a woman will almost invariably buy a knife with the most blades. As between a two, three or four-bladed knife she will take the four-bladed one every time, and if she takes one with fewer blades you can wager a box of candies that she is buying according to instructions from the masculine mind.

"On the other hand, a man, as a rule, will choose one of fewer blades, the three-bladed knife being the most popular choice. The file blade is not inserted in the handle as much as formerly. It is a blade which is rarely used nowadays, and, being obsolete according to the minds of most men, their choice falls upon the style without this blade. Yet there are some men who will ask for the file bladed knife.

"The modern imported, pearl-handled pocket knife is a very highly finished article for men's convenience and use. In addition to the blade metal being of the finest tempered steel, the mother of pearl used in the handles is specially selected for its lustre and finish, while the interior sides of the handles are lined with very thin sheets of brass. It is finished as an cutlery much more delicately and artistically than formerly. If, after use, the temper of the blades turn out to be 'all right' a man then comes attached to a particular pocket knife and he grieves as much over its loss as a woman over the loss of an expensive bracelet. The blades of the finer qualities have a razor finish and polish. They rust easily from the moisture from perspiration while carried in the pocket, and neatly finished chamois cases are furnished. These have patent clasps, like the clasps of a glove. You can sometimes tell a man's disposition by his knife case. If he is of a careful, patient disposition he retains the case, but an impatient man will discard it."

NEWPORT UNIQUE.

(Boston Herald.)

It can, furthermore, be said in behalf of Newport's claim to uniqueness among our fashionable watering places that none of its upstart rivals has ever been struck by lightning 25 times in 24 hours and survived the shock.

STRANGERS' DIRECTORY.

Guide to Buildings and Other Points of Interest in and Around Newport.

Court House—At the head of Washington square. An ancient brick Colonial structure until recently one of Rhode Island's state houses and for 200 years the meeting place of the state legislature in Newport. In its earlier history the town house as well. Now devoted to the use of the two lower courts and offices of the clerks of court and the sheriff. In the old senate chamber hangs an original painting by Gilbert Stuart of George Washington.

City Hall—Corner of Broadway and Bull street. Built five years ago, of Wickford granite. Headquarters of the several city departments, except the fire and police departments. The old city hall, previously a public market, and built in 1736, still stands at the corner of Long wharf and Thames street.

Redwood Library—Bellevue avenue, near Touro Park. An ancient institution, the original building having been added to several times. The architecture betrays age, and within study need not be confined to books alone.

Touro Synagogue—Touro street. An ancient structure, still open for Jewish worship. An interesting place.

Newport Historical Society Building—Just above, on Touro street. In the rear of the main building is the old Seventh Day Baptist Church, used as a curio hall, and in itself an interesting piece of architecture. The Natural History Society also has rooms here.

Newport Casino—Bellevue avenue. Scene of the national tennis tournaments, Horse, Dog and Flower shows, and other attractions open to public patronage.

Government Reservations.

Fort Adams—Across the harbor, at the entrance to the bay. No public conveyance, but may be reached by carriage or boat. The massive granite walls are no longer the strength of this fortification, the modern armament being hidden in great earth and concrete emplacements.

Naval Training Station—Located on Coasters' Harbor Island. Reached by boat, carriage or trolley cars. Island given to the government in 1880 for use as a training station. Located on the island are the Naval War College, naval hospital, marine barracks and the extensive apprentice barracks. The captured Spanish ship Reina Mercedes and the old Constellation, one of the first square-riggers of the navy, are tied up at the docks. Hundreds of young sailors are under instruction, and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons there are battalion drills.

Naval Torpedo Station—On Goat Island, just across the harbor. The public not received.

Government Landing—On Thames street and the harbor front. Opened last year as a landing place for government ferries, at the former site of the Swinburne, Peckham & Co. lumber yard. Property policed by guard of marines.

Churches.

Trinity—On Spring street, corner of Church. An ancient wooden structure, rich in Colonial features, with comely spire and old-fashioned box pews. Used as barracks by the English at the time of the Revolution, and said to have been saved because of the fact that the weather vane bears a crown. Has an old organ, the gift of Dean Berkeley. Is kept in good repair, and in the summer has a fashionable congregation.

Channing Memorial—On Pelham street. Erected to the memory of William Ellery Channing. Stone, with rich interior and fine memorial windows.

Friends Meeting House—On Marlboro and Farewell streets. Once the scene of the Yearly Meetings of the Friends of New England. Severely plain in construction. Divided within for men's and women's meetings, and throughout suggestive of the sect.

First Baptist—On Spring street. Built in 1846 on the site of a structure built in 1711, which itself replaced a former structure. The society claims to be the oldest Baptist church in America.

Rambles Here and There.

Along the Cliff Walk—Beginning at Easton's Beach and ending at Bailey's Beach. Four miles along rocky cliffs, with the restless ocean on one side and magnificent estates on the other. A well kept walk extends nearly the whole distance, sometimes on a level with the lawns, then sunken far below. Exits to Bellevue avenue are numerous during the first half of the distance, but beyond Marine avenue there are none until Ledge road, near the end. The walk is world-famed and full of scenes of natural and artificial beauty.

Around the Ocean Drive—From Bailey's Beach the road skirts the rocky coast for more than half its distance. Several summer villas are passed at the start. A little farther on are Lily Pond on the right and Hazard's Beach on the left. Around a sharp turn is the lodgehouse of the Gooseberry Island Club, and just beyond the Travers bungalow. Across a cove, on Price's Neck, is the United States life saving station. Around several more turns is the Graves Point fishing club, so called because of sailors' graves. Brenton's Point comes next, a favorite spot for viewing yacht races. The drive turns north and soon is out of sight of the water, passing the Golf Club and finally ascending to the heights at Brenton's Cove, where a turn is made to the water again, reaching Thames street after skirting King Park. Distance from the Court House around the Drive, about 10 miles.

Lovers' Lane—From Bath road to Old Beach road. A beautiful shaded way for carriage or pedestrian. Stone walls on either side and one dirt sidewalk.

Public Parks.

The Mall—Washington Square. Terminus of Providence Short Line. On direct route from railroad depot and Fall River Line dock. Adjacent to tracks of Old Colony system. Beautiful shade elms. Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry monument. Band concerts summer evenings.

Morton Park—Foot of Spring street. Reached by trolley cars. Given to the city by Levi P. Morton, former Vice President of the United States. Beautiful shade, fine grassy field and nature in its wildness. Children's playground. Band concerts Sunday afternoons.

Touro Park—Bellevue Avenue. Spring Street or Beach cars pass within a few minutes' walk. Location of the Old Stone Mill and the statues of Commodore Matthew C. Perry and of William Ellery Channing. Band concerts summer evenings.

Fort Greene Park—Washington Street. Training Station cars pass within a minute's walk. Park on site of old Revolutionary fort overlooking the bay. Band concerts summer evenings.

Out On the Island.

Purgatory—Across Easton's beach and point. A figure in the high rocks along the shore. Several legends are connected with it.

Paradise Valley—Now the location of one of Newport's water reservoirs. A beautiful valley amid a chain of high, rocky ledges. In the rear of Second beach.

Whitehall—The home of Bishop Berkeley. Across the Island. Now preserved because of its historic associations.

Butts Hill—West side of the Island. Of historic interest because of the battle of Rhode Island, fought there.

General Prescott's Headquarters—Five miles out on the West Main road, where, during the Revolution, General Prescott was captured by the Americans.

Beaches.

Easton's or First Beach—Over "the hill." A mile from Thames street. Reached by trolley cars and public vehicles. A public resort. Extensive bathing facilities, restaurant and amusements.

Second Beach—Beyond the First Beach. No public conveyance. Two miles in length. Used last year for automobile races. Bathing not general and not considered as safe as at the First Beach.

Spouting Rock or Bailey's Beach—At the end of Bellevue avenue. Three miles from Washington square. Reached by public vehicles. Private bathing facilities, operated by an association of summer residents.

Hazard's Beach—Off Ocean avenue, near the end of Carroll avenue. Has a private bathing pavilion.

Monuments.

Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry—On the Mall. Erected in honor of the Battle of Lake Erie.

Commodore Matthew C. Perry—On Touro Park. Erected in honor of the opening of Japan.

Soldiers and Sailors On Broadway. Erected in memory of the heroes of the Civil War.

William Ellery Channing—On Touro Park. Erected in memory of the famous Unitarian divine.

Benjamin Franklin—A bust set in a niche in the wall of the Custom House and Postoffice.

Miscellaneous.

Sponting Rock—Off the south shore, near Bailey's Beach. A cavern in the rocks, so formed that when certain storms prevail and the tides are at a given height the seas rush in and force the confined water high in the air in a solid jet. The throwing of rocks into the opening in recent years has shorn it of some of its power.

Lime Rock—A small isle in the southern part of the harbor. Site of a government lighthouse and home of Ida Lewis, the Grace Darling of America.

Long Wharf—One of the main highways into the city. Built originally by money raised by lottery. Then only half its present length, and pierced by a channel for shipping to enter the cove. Originally built of wood, and burned by the British during their occupation of the city. Until recent years lined by boatshops, in which were built the famous Newport catboats.

HANLEY'S PEERLESS ALE

A VERY important material for proper brewing is the yeast used. The brewers of HANLEY'S PEERLESS ALE obtain their yeast from original pure cultures by a process which eliminates all undesirable growths. The result of this is a perfect fermentation which determines the character of the ale. Just as the quality of the bread depends largely on the yeast used, so does the quality of ale, which is made in a very similar manner. After the yeast has performed its work, it is entirely eliminated by the proper ageing and care taken of the ale after fermentation.

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER.

Foreign Settlements Contained in the Metropolis.

A Series of Alien Communities—Controller Metz Finds $1,200,000 Worth of Real Estate For City.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—A New Yorker, who happened to be in one of the coast towns in Italy somewhat over a year ago, witnessed there the town's celebration of the feast of St. Mary. In the evening the streets were gay with illuminated arches. There was a parade with colored fire and bands, fire balloons were floated, and in one of the squares was set up a huge pink and silver and gold altar to the saint, before which a reverent throng constantly passed and upon which scores of candles burned. "How unlike New York!" remarked the New Yorker.

A few evenings ago, happening to stroll south from the old aristocratic quarter of Stuyvesant square, he found himself on the edge of a teeming Italian section in the streets of which the celebration he had seen in Italy was being reproduced, illuminated arches, fire balloons, parade, altar and all. He mingled with the throng, and so far as the faces he saw and the language he heard were concerned, he might have been in the midst of Italy.

In New York, embracing as it does men of all nations, all races, all creeds, every holiday and feast day in the world is celebrated by some portion of the population. New Yorkers who do little exploring about the city do not realize that with 37 per cent of the population foreign born, the metropolis contains a succession of foreign cities. The aggregate of all foreign born and those of foreign parentage in New York is 2,339,895.

New York is the largest Jewish city in the world with about 700,000 Hebrews. During the feast of Rosh Hoshana September 20, business will be at a standstill over a large portion of the East side and for over a mile along Broadway in the section beginning with Canal street and ending at Astor place. New York contains within a few thousand as many Irish as Belfast and Dublin together, more Germans than Munich, more Italians than Florence, nearly as many Russians as Riga, nearly as many Austro-Hungarians as Prague, and more Norwegians than Christiansand.

Mr. Bryan is retired from the limelight of Presidential possibilities. President Roosevelt, if he finally decides to run again, would best beware, and candidates like Shaw, Fairbanks, Taft and Hearst would better take to the tall timber. The pushcart peddlers of the East side are out with a ticket which they believe will sweep the country. The ticket is: For President, Police Commissioner Bingham; for Vice President, Deputy Commissioner "Rhinewine" Waldo. The proclamation of these new candidates followed the announcement that Commissioner Bingham and his deputy had ordered the police to forget the Sunday law so far as the pushcart men are concerned, and look the other way when the peddlers are selling things. The pushcart men wish to sell on this particular Sabbath because during a part of the week they will be idle on account of the feast of Rosh Hashana.

Sigmund Schwartz, president of the United Pushcart Peddlers' Association of Greater New York, and Fimum Baddle Mose Lippman are the original Bingham men. At a meeting of the Peddlers' Association an announcement that Mr. Waldo's name was originally Rhinewein Waldosky evoked tremendous hysteria. It was suggested that the peddlers give Commissioner Bingham a diamond studded cane and a set of diamond shirt buttons, but frugal afterthought changed this to a set of engrossed resolutions, in red, green, yellow and pink lettering, with a bunch of wax flowers tied to the frame.

Residents of New York's upper West side have been getting free mud baths for the past few weeks and have not been enjoying the treat. As soon as they draw a few inches of water into the tub, they are unable to see the bottom. For drinking purposes they have been compelled to purchase water at the drug stores. Of course the department of water supply has been deluged with letters from indignant citizens, and after its high-priced bacteriologist sat on the problem for many days it was recently announced that "the water has an unpleasant odor, due to microscopic vegetable growths, but it is perfectly safe for drinking purposes." West siders were probably little reassured by this bulletin, as, in their experience, the "microscopic vegetable growths" include fish, both dead and alive, eels and various water bugs. It is unpleasant to find a dead eel in one's bath or a dead fish in one's coffee, so the West siders are up in arms.

In addition, during the past few months big water mains in the city have burst three times doing great damage. On one of these occasions a portion of Fifth avenue was turned into a lake, on another a hilly section of Harlem was transformed into a roaring torrent, and on the third the subway was flooded for hours. The Fifth avenue inundation occurred on a Sunday, and as no water department officer could be found in the town, the flood grew for hours until the firemen were able to shut it off. Of the two other occasions it transpired that the department engineers didn't know where the water gates of the mains were located. New York considers such lessons in the political management of public utilities rather expensive.

Controller Metz is a proud man these days. He has just found $1,200,000, not for himself, but for the city. The money is in the form of real estate in the neighborhood of Coney Island. There the local gas company had recently been trying to buy some land in order to erect a big gas holder, but the company has experienced some difficulty in getting a clear title to portions of the territory it required. This state of affairs started a shrewd real estate man investigating and he discovered that a large portion of the territory really belonged to the city. Years ago John Y. McKane, the big political boss, was overlord of the territory, and whenever he wanted money he would sell a patch of city land. But he never gave any title to these real estate parcels, as indeed he had no valid right to, and now after many years the city claims its own again.

When the hand-organs grind out "Waiting at the Church," in a crowded section of the lower West side, the population sings it to the words of "Waiting for the Park." They have been waiting a long while. When three commissioners to condemn property for the proposed Chelsea park were appointed in July, 1905, the district rejoiced, for a few green acres amid the brick tenements were sadly needed. Thereafter, however, nothing more was heard of the park until a few days ago, when the Citizens' Union, through its bureau of industrial betterment, made public the fact that the Chelsea board commissioners were worthy of public attention.

It seems that each commissioner gets $10 for every meeting of the board he attends. Since the appointment of the board there have been 110 meetings, earning $1,100 for each commissioner, though the Citizens' Union has been unable to discover anything that the hardworking gentlemen have accomplished and the park is no nearer than it was a year ago. According to the union, typical meetings of the board are those at which the commissioners simply stroll in, sign their names in a book in order to get paid, and stroll out again. The younger element of the population in the Chelsea district is saving up a choice collection of ancient eggs and tomatoes against the first public appearance of the board.

At a recent court hearing it became known that the gas investigation of last year in New York city, at which Charles E. Hughes won his spurs as an investigator, cost the Consolidated Gas Company $77,000. As the same investigation cost the state $57,000 the total cost was close to $165,000. Of course, in the long run, the people have to pay all of this. But New Yorkers generally are well convinced the investigations as costly as this one and the insurance probing are well worth the money.

LONGACRE.

ROOSEVELT SAYS WAR MUST STOP.

the social bonds throughout the island have been so relaxed that life, property and individual liberty are no longer safe. I have received authentic information of injury to and destruction of American property. It is in my judgment imperative for the sake of Cuba that there shall be an immediate cessation of hostilities and some arrangement which will secure the permanent pacification of the island.

"I am sending to Havana the Secretary of War, Mr. Taft, and the Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Bacon, as the special representatives of this government, who will render such aid as is possible toward these ends. I had hoped that Mr. Root, the Secretary of State, could have stopped in Havana on his return from South America, but seeming imminence of the crisis forbids further delay.

"Through you I desire in this way to communicate with the Cuban government and with the Cuban people, and, accordingly, I am sending you a copy of this letter to be presented to President Palma, and have also directed its immediate publication."

GRANTED WAR POWERS.

Cuban Congress Accedes to President Palma's Requests.

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—The extra session of congress called by President Palma completed at one sitting this afternoon the business for which it was summoned; namely, the granting to President Palma fullest powers not already constitutionally possessed by the executive for carrying on the war, including the right to appropriate any public funds for war purposes, revoking appropriations voted at the preceding session of congress in order to permit the diversion of the moneys involved to prosecution of the war and authorizing increase of the rural guards to 10,000 and the artillery to 2,000 men.

President Palma submitted a brief message, principally devoted to deploring the conduct of the opposition, whom he charged with the responsibility of causing the rebellion. The message contained no recommendations beyond suggestions that congress approve all recent executive decrees and take such steps as may be deemed advisable for ending the war. The president charged his political opponents with having, ever since the opening of the last election campaign, plotted to use violence. He said the opposition had seemed to devote themselves to such efforts rather than to organize effectively for the contest for votes at the next election, as was done among people who were accustomed to the exercise of the boons of liberty.

The message sketched the events of the revolution in the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Santa Clara, the imprisonment of alleged conspirators and the inadequacy of the military force, and said it would not be discreet to send more soldiers from Havana under the existing threatening conditions. The president had been engaged in developing the temporal conditions of the country and had not imagined that it would be necessary to prepare against an internecine war. The revolution had found the government without sufficient arms, ammunition or horses, and the administration had done the best it could in providing these, enlisting volunteers, organizing militia, etc.

The message continues: "The growth of the rebellion has been such that we cannot with the regular forces prevent rebel forces scattered over an extensive area from entering towns and destroying property."

The message further comments upon the condition of the troops and the police and adds that the extraordinary efforts of the executive to control and suppress the insurrection continue. The passage is asked of such measures as congress may deem advisable to aid the executive in his efforts.

When the senate assembled it was one short of two thirds, necessary to constitute a quorum. After the message and blanket bill had been read, Senator Recio, Liberal, and Senator Sanguily, Independent, called attention to the lack of a quorum, disclaiming any intention of taking the responsibility of obstructing congress in the midst of a grave situation, but insisting that the discrepancy be made a matter of record.

This triples the former force of rural guards and doubtless the artillery. These measures, which were combined in one blanket bill, were passed by party votes, the Liberals and independents refraining from voting and the Liberals Nationalists voting with the Moderates.

Senator Bravo Correoso, Moderate, said that in an extraordinary situation a quorum was not necessary. During the discussion of the bill Senator Sanguily made an impassioned appeal for peace rather than war preparations, begging the senate to forget partisanship and personal considerations, and show, instead, its patriotism by seeking a method of securing peace. Senor Sanguily pictured in dark colors the possibilities in connection with American intervention, and said the continuance of strife would mean the loss to the country of its language and racial history.

In the house of representatives only 40 out of a total membership of 60 were present, two less than the legal opening quorum. The senate bill passed the house by a party vote and by a party vote also a resolution declaring confidence in President Palma was adopted. A motion for the appointment of a peace commission of five members to negotiate with the insurgents was rejected.

The events of today indicated that the insurgents of Havana province regarded the landing of American sailors as constituting intervention, and they signified their readiness on that occasion to quit the field. Nothing resulted from their offers to surrender.

The worst sufferers today were the railroads, which are completely tied up, no trains leaving Havana. Telegraphic communication is almost as badly paralyzed.

Reports of the capture of Cienfuegos are persistent, but the absence of telegraphic communication makes it impossible to verify the rumors.

The insurgents in Pinar del Rio province are moving eastward and say they have no reason to object to the operation of the railroad. The main body of the insurgents in Havana province are known to have moved nearer to Havana city.

Many rumors are in circulation of the disaffection of the police, and fears of attacks and uprisings have not wholly disappeared.

TO PREVENT FILIBUSTERING.

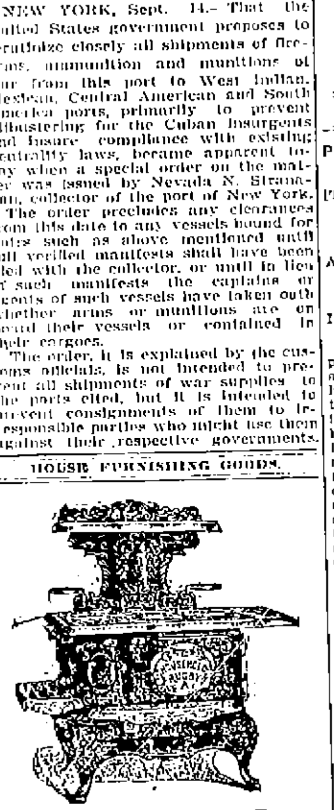

Shipments of Firearms to South America to be Scrutinized Closely.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—That the United States government proposes to scrutinize closely all shipments of firearms, ammunition and munitions of war from this port to West Indian, Mexican, Central American and South America ports, primarily to prevent filibustering for the Cuban insurgents and insure compliance with existing neutrality laws, became apparent today when a special order on the matter was issued by Nevada N. Stranahan, collector of the port of New York.

The order precludes any clearances from this date to any vessels bound for ports such as above mentioned until full verified manifests shall have been filed with the collector, or until in lieu of such manifests the captains or agents of such vessels have taken oath whether arms or munitions are on board their vessels or contained in their cargoes.

The order, it is explained by the customs officials, is not intended to prevent all shipments of war supplies to the ports cited, but it is intended to prevent consignments of them to irresponsible parties who might use them against their respective governments.

PUBLIC LAWS, PASSED AT THE JANUARY SESSION, 1906.

[The Chapters of the Public Laws are numbered continuously from the General Laws, Revision of 1896.]

CHAPTER 1370.

AN ACT to Create a State Board of Accountancy and to Regulate the Business of Certified Public Accountants.
(Passed April 20, 1906.)

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to practice as a certified public accountant in this state unless he shall have first obtained a certificate of registration as provided in this act. Any citizen of the United States, or person who has duly declared his intention of becoming such citizen, having a place for the regular transaction of business as a professional accountant in this state, being over the age of twenty-one years, of good moral character, who shall have received as hereinafter provided in this act a certificate of his qualifications to practice as a certified public accountant, shall be deemed and known as a certified public accountant under the provisions of this act; and no person, unless he has received a certificate under the provisions of this act, shall advertise or in any manner use such name of certified public accountant, or the abbreviation "C. P. A.," or any other words or letters, or any imitation thereof, tending to indicate that the person so advertising or using the same is such certified public accountant.

Sec. 2. A board of examiners, to be known as the state board of accountancy, is hereby created to carry out the purposes and enforce the provisions of this act. The members of said board, when appointed, shall be citizens of this state and skilled in the practice of accounting, and when appointed shall have been actively engaged therein on their own account in this state for not less than the three years next preceding the date of their appointment. At the present session of the general assembly the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint one member of said board to hold office until the first day of February, A. D. 1907; one member of said board to hold office until the first day of February, A. D. 1908; and one member of said board to hold office until the first day of February, A. D. 1909. At the January session of the general assembly, A. D. 1907, and at the January session of the general assembly in every year thereafter, the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint one member of said board, who when appointed shall be a certified public accountant, to hold office until the first day of February in the third year after his appointment, to succeed the member of such board whose term will next expire: Provided, that any vacancy which may occur in said board when the senate is not in session shall be filled by the governor until the next session thereof, when he shall, with the advice and consent of the senate, appoint some person, who when appointed shall be a certified public accountant, to fill such vacancy for the remainder of the term. The members of said board may be removed by the governor, for such cause as he shall deem sufficient and shall express in the order of removal. Each member of said board, unless he resigns or is removed, shall hold office until the appointment and qualification of his successor. Each member of said board shall give a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, with surety or sureties to be approved by the general treasurer, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, and shall take the oath provided by law for public officers.

Sec. 3. Said state board of accountancy shall organize, as soon as may be after their appointment and qualification, by electing one of their members chairman and one of their members secretary and one of their members treasurer (except that said board may elect the same member secretary and treasurer); such organization shall continue until the appointment and qualification of any new member of said board of examiners, except in case of a vacancy in any office, when such vacancy may be filled forthwith. The secretary of said board shall keep a record of all its proceedings, issue all notices and certificates, and attest all such papers and orders as said board shall direct; and the secretary shall perform such other duties as shall be designated by said board.

Sec. 4. Said board shall have power to adopt rules and regulations for conducting examinations to be held under this act. Said examinations shall be held at least once a year in the city of Providence, and elsewhere in the discretion of said board. Such examinations shall be held upon the theory of accounts, practical accounting, auditing, commercial law as affecting accountancy, and such other subjects as said board may determine. Such board shall issue to each applicant passing a satisfactory examination a certificate entitling such person to practice in this state, as a certified public accountant, until such certificate shall be revoked as hereinafter provided in this act. Said board shall keep a register in which shall be entered the names of all the persons to whom certificates are issued under this act, and said register shall be open at all times to public inspection at the office of the secretary of said board.

Sec. 5. Said board shall charge for the examination and certificate provided for in this act a fee of twenty-five dollars, payable by said applicant at the time of filing his application. In case of the failure on part of any applicant to attend the examination at the date specified by said board or to pass a satisfactory examination, said applicant may, at the discretion of said board, appear at the next annual examination of said board for re-examination upon the payment of the further sum of fifteen dollars.

Sec. 6. The actual expenses of said board shall be paid out of the funds received from applicants for examinations: provided, that in no event shall such expenses be a charge against the state. No member of said board shall receive any compensation for his services, but he shall be entitled to receive from the funds in the hands of said board his actual expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties under this act.

Sec. 7. Said board shall present annually to the general assembly in the month of January a detailed statement of the receipts and disbursements of said board during the preceding year, with a statement of its acts and proceedings, and such recommendations as said board may deem proper. Any moneys in the hands of the treasurer of said board at the time of making such report shall then be paid over to the general treasurer.

Sec. 8. Said board may, in its discretion, register the certificate of any certified public accountant who is the lawful holder of such certificate issued under the laws of any other state, territory, District of Columbia, or government, and may issue to such certified public accountant a certificate of registration, which certificate shall entitle the holder thereof to practice as such certified public accountant under the provisions of this act in this state: Provided, that such other state, territory, government, or the District of Columbia extends similar privileges to certified public accountants of this state. Said board shall charge for such certificate of registration a fee of fifteen dollars.

Sec. 9. Said board, by a majority vote thereof, may, in its discretion, waive the examination of any person possessing the qualifications mentioned in this act who, for more than three years preceding the passage of this act, shall have practiced in this state on his own account as a public accountant, and who shall apply in writing to said board for such certificate within six months after the passage of this act. Said board may charge for such certificate of registration a fee not exceeding fifteen dollars. Said board shall have power to revoke any certificate of registration, granted by it under this act, for gross incompetency, for unprofessional conduct, or for other cause sufficient in the judgment of said board: Provided, that before any certificate shall be so revoked the holder thereof shall have notice in writing of the charge or charges against him and shall have reasonable opportunity to be heard in his defence. Any person whose certificate has been so revoked may apply to have the same reissued, and the same shall be issued to him upon a satisfactory showing that such disqualification has ceased. Said board shall have power by its chairman to summon any person to appear as a witness and testify at any hearing by said board under the provisions of this act, and to examine and to administer oaths to such witnesses. Any person aggrieved by any decision or ruling of said board may, within thirty days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, after receiving notice of said decision, appeal therefrom to the superior court sitting at Providence, and said superior court shall, as soon as may be, hear and determine said appeal, following the course of equity, and subject to all the rights of parties in such causes.

Sec. 10. Nothing in this act shall prohibit any person from serving as a student, clerk, or employee in the office of any certified public accountant: Provided, such student, clerk, or employee shall first file with the secretary of said board a statement in writing, showing the name and place of business of his employer, and the date of the beginning of such employment, and the full name, age, and residence of such student, clerk, or employee. No such student, clerk, or employee shall be authorized to certify accounts or to advertise or hold himself out to the public as a certified public accountant.

Sec. 11. Any person practicing the occupation of certified public accountant, or using the abbreviation "C. P. A.," or similar words or letters indicating that the person using the same is a certified public accountant, or representing himself to the public as having received the certificate provided in this act, without having received such certificate as provided in this act, or any person so representing himself as having received such certificate or practicing as aforesaid after his certificate has been revoked as provided in this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars for each offence, and upon a subsequent conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 12. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

not confirm press despatches as to the destruction of sugar plantations.

From despatches received today from Mr. Sleeper, charge of the American legation at Havana, it appears that the extent of damage to American property near Cienfuegos has been exaggerated. Mr. Sleeper says he had received a contradiction of the report that the Hanley estate had been destroyed. Thus far, he says, he has not been able to confirm the report that the Constancia estate buildings have been burned. Other advices received at the State Department are to the effect that the buildings on the Hormiguerra estate were not burned by the insurgents, and it is said the report probably arose from the fact that the railway shipping station near that estate had been destroyed.

A despatch was received today from American Consul Rose Holiday, at Santiago de Cuba, that so far as he has been able to learn, there has been no actual warfare in Santiago province, but that it is reported 500 men are under arms.

Secretary Taft will be accompanied on his Cuban trip by Captain Frank R. McCoy, one of his military aides. Captain McCoy was an aid to General Leonard Wood, both in Cuba and the Philippines, and speaks Spanish fluently.

The present plan is for the party to leave Washington at 3:45 p. m. tomorrow for Tampa, Fla. It is not yet definitely settled whether they will embark on a naval vessel at that place or proceed by the regular merchant line steamer to Key West and there embark on a national ship. The length of the stay of Secretaries Taft and Bacon in Cuba can only be conjectured at present, but it is believed that their work can be completed within a week after their arrival in Havana. Meanwhile the officials feel confident that there will be a suspension of active hostilities in the island.

No orders have so far been despatched for the Marietta's men to return to the ship from Cienfuegos, and as they are engaged in protecting American property solely, and their status thereby differs materially from the force originally landed in Havana from the Denver, it is believed that they will be allowed to remain on shore for the present.

BOSTON MARINES TO LEAVE.

Ordered to Proceed at Once to Norfolk and Thence to Cuba.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Orders for a detachment of 60 marines to proceed at once to Norfolk, Va., were received today from Washington at the Charlestown navy yard. Upon arrival at Norfolk it was arranged to embark upon a United States cruiser bound for Cuba in connection with the Cuban insurrection. Forty of the marines to leave here have been stationed at the navy yard barracks and the rest on board receiving ship Wabash. It was planned to send the men away on an afternoon train from the South station, in charge of Sergeant McDonald.

Later in the day Colonel Thomas N. Wood received instructions from the Navy Department at Washington to increase the strength of the departing marines to 100 men. Colonel Wood recruited the additional men from the marine barracks and placed Lieutenant Kincaid in command. The company left for New York on an afternoon train.

It was learned at the navy yard this afternoon that the new battleship New Jersey had received rush orders to proceed southward. Arrangements were made immediately to coal her, and although the ostensible destination is New York it is believed here that the New Jersey has been ordered south in connection with the insurrection in Cuba. The battleship came here a few days ago under orders to undergo repairs, which it was expected, would detain her in port about two months.

MARINES UNDER HURRY ORDERS.

Sent South That They Might be Available for Service in Cuba.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 15.—A detachment of 66 marines, under command of Captain Charles F. Hatch, left the Portsmouth navy yard under hurry orders today, on their way to Norfolk, Va. With good train connections the men will arrive in that city in time to embark on one of the cruisers which is under orders to sail next Monday night. It was the opinion among the officers at the local yard that the marines were being hurried South in order that they might be available for service in Cuba.

MUST BE A PROTECTORATE.

Otherwise the Province of Santiago Will Burst Into Revolt.

HAVANA, Sept. 15.—Eduoardo Chibas, a prominent resident of Santiago, said to the Associated Press today:

"The entire province of Santiago will burst into revolt unless the United States intervenes imediately. There must be a protectorate, or there will be no permanent peace in Cuba."

PLEASING TO CUBANS.

Roosevelt's Action in Sending Commission to the Island.

HAVANA, Sept. 15.—President Roosevelt's action in sending Secretary of War Taft and Acting Secretary of State Bacon to Cuba to investigate conditions in the island was regarded favorably on the whole by those who were first apprised of it.

Cubans generally, it may be said, do not desire intervention of any sort in Cuban affairs, but the desire for a settlement of some kind now predominates. The conviction is overwhelming that the trouble must be settled through the United States.

The truth of President Roosevelt's picture of the deplorability of the revolution and of his reference to the United States right of intervention is not questioned.

Secretary Taft's reputation as a pacificator and as administrator in the Philippines makes his coming particularly welcome.

The letter of President Roosevelt to the Cuban minister, is the topic of the day among Cubans and foreigners alike. Far from considering his references to American intervention as something to be dreaded, it almost universally is regarded as the most desirable consummation possible of the trouble. Some persons do not agree with this view, but they are very rare. All the business interests are anxious for intervention, and even the politicians admit that this would be the best outcome.

The Associated Press correspondent hears that some of the government officials who are closest to President Palma privately welcome the idea, and that the president himself desires protection, though not permanent intervention.

The general opinion among Cuban business men today is that intervention is the most desirable thing which can be suggested and their only fear is that it may be only temporary. There is a somewhat marked feeling of disappointment among the veterans that intervention is possible or imminent. The veterans for sentimental reasons would regret to see Cuba sacrifice her sovereignty in even a small degree. This feeling, however, is offset by the universal desire for a permanent settlement of the trouble, and for a government which can be relied on to preserve peace under all circumstances.

Everybody is gratified over the fact that Secretary of War Taft and Acting Secretary of State Bacon are to be sent to render aid to bring about peace. A few of the leaders of the moderates are of the opinion that Secretary Taft will settle the matter within one week on some basis of the division of offices, etc., but how to get the rebels to agree to anything which shall include the retention of President Palma's administration is a serious conundrum. A correspondent of the Associated Press, who has just returned from the front in Pinar Del Rio province, where he visited both the insurgent and government troops, reports that almost all that region sympathizes with the rebels, but not to the extent of handing the reins of government to them. The almost universal consensus of opinion throughout the province is for American intervention. The same sentiment prevails among the rank and file of the government troops.

INTERESTS IN CUBA SUFFER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—President Roosevelt's letter to the quarreling Cubans, in which he called for peace, and announced that he would send Secretaries Taft and Bacon to Havana at once to inquire into conditions, is pleasing to business men here, whose interests in Cuba had begun to suffer. The suggestion that he send a commission to Cuba, it was stated, came from them. One of the most prominent Cuban bankers in this city said last night:

"President Palma cannot cope with the revolutionists because it is impossible for any military power in the world to prevent rebels from burning crops and destroying railroads. If the rebels engaged in open battle the government forces would be victorious, but they scatter and hide in the mountains and woods, so that it is impossible to capture them.

"President Roosevelt did not wish to intervene in Cuban affairs, but he has had to do so. I believe that as a result of sending a commission to Cuba the revolutionists will lay down their arms and both sides will tell their stories. Then after a lapse of a few months, when affairs quiet down, the question can be amicably settled."

Secretary Taft and Secretary Bonaparte reached Long Island City from Oyster Bay at 11:30 o'clock last night. They refused to comment on the Cuban situation, or to discuss their conference with the President.

Secretary Taft said that he and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon will leave Washington for Cuba tomorrow night. They will go by rail to Key West and embark there on a warship for Havana. He said that he could not tell when they will reach Cuba, as he had not looked up the time tables.

Immediately on being informed early this morning that Secretary Taft and Acting Secretary Bacon were going to Cuba, Colonel Charles M. Aguirre, head of the revolutionary junta, sent a cable despatch to Havana, advising the insurgents to stop fighting pending the outcome of the mission of Mr. Taft and Mr. Bacon.

Colonel Aguirre forwarded the message to Felipe Romero, at Havana, who has been acting as an intermediary for General Loinaz Del Castillo in his offer to surrender to Commander Colwell, and who will deliver it to Dr. Alfredo Zayas, executive head of the insurrection.

"I am pleased to hear," said Colonel Aguirre, "that two such responsible men as Mr. Taft and Mr. Bacon are to investigate the situation right on the ground. We are ready to do whatever President Roosevelt might reasonably suggest."

The Value of a House

Depends wholly on its appearance. A house that is allowed to go several years without painting deteriorates in value each year the amount it would cost to paint it. Mr. property holder, we ask you if this is not so?

Twenty-five dollars worth of the Colonial Paint will add five hundred dollars worth to the value of your house. The Colonial contains more Carbonate of Lead than any other paint made, and is sold subject to chemical analysis.

STEAMER OREGON ON ROCKS.

Wrecked 70 Miles From Valdez and Vessel Will be Total Loss.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—A despatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Valdez, says: Steamer Oregon hit the rocks on the beach of Hinchinbrook island, at the entrance to Prince William sound, at 11 o'clock last night. She was trying to find the entrance in the darkness, when the headland loomed up, and although she reversed the engines the vessel struck hard enough to tear the bottom off. The Oregon struck at low tide and water soon filled the engine room to the second railing.

A crew of five men left immediately for Valdez to get assistance. Revenue cutters Rush and McCulloch left to take off the passengers. There was no sea running at the time of the wreck, but the position of the steamer is exposed to the full force of the swell, and if the wind rises she is in a precarious condition. The wreck occurred 70 miles from Valdez and 35 miles from Nuchek. The passengers are all safe. The vessel will be a total loss.

PASSENGERS IN DANGER.

Revenue Cutters Sent to Relief of Those on Board of Oregon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Special despatches received here of the wreck of steamship Oregon off Cape Hinchenbrook at the entrance of Prince William sound, at 11 o'clock on Thursday night, say that the steamer lies in a very dangerous position and should a severe storm set in the passengers and crew would stand but little chance of surviving.

The Oregon, commanded by Captain H. F. Soule, sailed from Seattle for Valdez and Seward September 8. She had 50 odd passengers and about 300 tons of freight. The vessel in making the voyage takes the outside, or open ocean, and makes no stop between Seattle and Valdez. Though nothing definite is known at this time, the Oregon evidently encountered a heavy fog, putting into Prince William sound, or possibly broke down and was driven on the rocks by the gales.

When the news of the wreck was brought to Valdez by Chief Mate Kennedy and four sailors after a long row of 50 or 60 miles, revenue cutters Rush and McCulloch were immediately dispatched to the scene of the disaster to rescue the passengers. The steamers should have arrived alongside the Oregon at 2 o'clock this morning, having left Seattle at 8 o'clock last night. If the cutters reach the Oregon before she breaks up they will doubtless have little difficulty in taking off those on board. Should the vessel go to pieces, however, before the relief steamers arrive, the passengers will have extreme difficulty in making the shore under the most favorable conditions.

Cape Hinchenbrook is a narrow neck of land extending far out into the sea, forming one side of the entrance to Prince William sound. It has ever been regarded as a menace to navigation, and it was but a few months ago that the government made an appropriation of $125,000 for the erection of a light at the extreme end of the point. This work is now progressing. The Oregon is owned by the Northwestern Commercial Company of Seattle.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. Wall Street.—The stock market opened firm, with Amalgamated Copper at 113, American Locomotive 72½, American Smelting 155½, Anaconda 284, Atchison 105¾, Baltimore & Ohio 122, Brooklyn Transit 80½, Canadian 175, Colorado Fuel & Iron 56¾, Erie 48¾, Great Northern preferred 327¾, Louisville 150½, Missouri Pacific 95½, New York Central 143¾, Northern Pacific 210½, Pennsylvania 143½, Reading 149 to 149¾, Rock Island 27¾, Sugar 137¾, St. Paul 177¾, Southern Railway 35¾, Southern Pacific 91½, Union Pacific 188¾, United States Steel 46½, United States Steel preferred 106¾, Wabash preferred 45½.

10—Prices of stocks moved upward quite generally in the opening dealings, which were large. Gains were moderate except in the specialties. First transactions in Reading were running sales of 8,000 shares at 149 and 150¼, compared with 148¾ of last night. Delaware & Hudson gained 2, Distillers Securities 1½, and Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific and Locomotive about a point. Reading advanced progressively about 1¼ in the subsequent dealings.

11—While the enormous dealings in and buoyancy in Reading had some strengthening relative effect on the rest of the stocks, the movement was not construed favorably as regards the general list, and prices declined fractionally below yesterday's closing. For a time 1,000 shares were the unit of the transactions in Reading and they ranged up to 5,000 shares, the price touching 152½, an over-night gain of 3½. Frequent relapses occurred, but they lowered most of the time close to 152. Baltimore & Ohio moved up 3, Locomotive and Louisville & Nashville 2, and Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Northwestern 1. There were declines of a point each in Kansas & Texas preferred and Atlantic Coast Line.

Closing—Money on call nominal, no loans; time loans, dull but strong, 60 days; prime mercantile paper, 6 @ 6½ per cent; sterling exchange steady, at $4.83.90 @ $4.84 for demand, and at $4.80.20 @ $4.80.25 for 60-day bills; posted rates, $4.81 @ ½ and $4.84½; commercial bills, $4.79¾ @ $4.80; bar silver, 67¾; Mexican dollars, 52½; government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, firm. Pennsylvania's rise to 144 failed to stimulate the market, although a few industrials of lesser importance advanced sharply. The bank statement showed a small surplus. The reserve re-established, but the cash gained was much below expectations. Reading was lifted to a shade above its best early price, but the level of the market receded. The closing was easy and rather dull.

POPULAR EDUCATION FOR FARMERS.

Never has there been such a campaign of popular education among the farmers as in the past year, and probably never at any previous time have the farmers been in so receptive a mood and so well prepared to profit by this effort. Special trains have been run through a whole state for the purpose of instructing the farmers along the route in the importance of seed selection in growing corn, wheat and potatoes, and there have also been dairy and good roads specials of a similar character. These trains have carried a corps of men to give popular talks, with materials for illustration. This form of extension work originated at the agricultural colleges and experiment stations, and the men taking part in it have been largely officers holding positions in those institutions.

In other states excursions have been run to bring farmers to the college and station. In North Dakota, for example, these excursions have been a feature for several years past. They are run at the instance of the college and station officers. The railroads offer greatly reduced rates, assign the necessary cars for the purpose, and turn the whole matter of arranging the plans and schedules over to the director of the station. Excursion centres are established, usually about two in a county, and a responsible farmer is appointed to select 50 persons who are to be brought from each centre. This number must include 12 or 15 young men who expect to remain on the farm, and a certain number of women.

While the railroads may not be entirely disinterested in their efforts to promote a closer relationship between the farmer and the agricultural college and experiment stations, knowing that their own prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the farmer, and that if two stalks of wheat can be induced to grow where one grew before the result will be seen in the balance sheet of the railroad at the end of the fiscal year, few people endorse the stand of one Western paper, which sees in this apparently harmless cooperation a sinister scheme on the part of the railroads to lure the unwary husbandman into a trap.

STOLEN CITY STONE.

Conflict Between Mayor and Street Commissioner.

City Council After Long Discussion Appoints Special Committee to Investigate.

The City Council held a special session last evening. The meeting was apparently a stage secret, as no one seemed to know anything about it. The city clerk was out of sight and could not give away anything, and there seemed to be a general determination on the part of the powers that be to keep the meeting a profound secret. The result was that the members of the Council reached the City Hall without knowing what the special session was for.

When the meeting was called to order a communication was read from Mayor Cottrell, which stated that he had called the Council in special session to consider the fact that complaint had been made to him that crushed stone had been taken from the city quarry on Sunday, August 19, and perhaps at other times, without the knowledge or consent of the street commissioner, and to take action thereon and on any other matters that might come before it. In the Board of Aldermen the communication was referred to a special committee, and Aldermen Bliss and Ritchie were appointed. The Common Council concurred and Councilmen Kerr, Donnelly and James J. Martin were appointed. this was after a long display of linguistic abilities and a joint meeting of both bodies.

When the matter reached the Common Council there was a superabundance of talk, but most of it came after the joint convention. Mr. Rogers said he would like to have the Council hear what the street commissioner had to say on the matter before any action was taken, and it was voted to ask the street commissioner to tell about the matter, and also to invite the Board of Aldermen to meet with the Common Council and hear what he had to say. The board accepted the invitation and Mayor Cottrell presided.

He started things at once by saying that the joint convention had met to hear Street Commissioner Hamilton's explanation of the executive communication. Mr. Hamilton followed this by stating that the mayor's explanation was not correct, as the Councilmen knew, but that he had been asked to explain his position. He said that perhaps the best way would be to answer questions. Alderman Bliss said he did not know what to ask, and suggested that the explanation of the street commissioner would better be made to the investigating committee and not made before the committee had begun to work.

Street Commissioner Hamilton said he heard that stone had been stolen from the city quarry and the next morning went to see the chief of police about the matter. He learned that the mayor had been to see the chief and arrangements had been made to watch the place and discover what could be learned. This caused the commissioner to abandon his plan for watching, as he did not want to cross the efforts made by the mayor and chief of police to learn the facts. The next day the mayor informed the commissioner of what he had done. Several days later the mayor saw the commissioner and said he had competent and reliable witnesses who were willing to testify in court that stone had been stolen. The commissioner asked the mayor why he did not prosecute, and the mayor said he wanted more evidence. The commissioner asked, if he had four or five good witnesses why he did not proceed at once. The mayor said he would consult a lawyer.

Several days after this the mayor said to the commissioner that he ought to prosecute. The commissioner replied that he would not prosecute, as he had not investigated the matter, knew nothing about it and had no evidence. He said he felt that the whole matter looked like a personal reflection on himself. Had he investigated the case and had evidence such as the mayor claimed to have he would have begun a prosecution within 48 hours. He had not investigated, because he did not want to clash with the investigation first begun by the mayor.

Some days later Mr. Hamilton said he visited the quarry and asked what was going on there. He was told that some stone had been loaned to a contractor by one of the employes at the quarry without authority from him or from any one in the street department. Mr. Hamilton said he was extremely sorry that the man had assumed any such authority, but the stone was gone and that was all there was to it. The city quarry does not sell crushed stone, and he was told that the stone loaned as a business accommodation would be returned. He said he would be glad to have a full investigation of the highway department in every line and felt that everything would be found to be right, as it had been for years.

Mayor Cottrell said he now felt that perhaps he had not taken the right course and that the street commissioner had a right to feel aggrieved. His first thought was to find out who had taken the stone.

Alderman Bliss asked, if the stone was taken while no city men were present, how the commissioner could say that it would be returned. Mr. Hamilton said two loads were weighed and the others were averaged on those weights. In all 14 tons of stone are due the city.

At 8:20 the joint convention separated and the Common Council resumed its talk. Mr. Rogers said he saw no occasion for action by the City Council. If the mayor has evidence, he should prosecute; if there is no evidence, then the Council has no occasion for looking for it. In any event, he did not see that an investigating committee could learn anything more than the mayor had found out.

Mr. James J. Martin suggested that the executive communication should have been received and that the further action of either the Aldermen or the Councilmen should have been by resolution. He said the mayor should have known enough of parliamentary proceedings to have his communication go through without a committee attached to it.

Mr. Donnelly said that if this was a case of theft he saw no occasion for the City Council to investigate it any more than it would any case of theft or robbery which comes to the notice of the police. It is the usual practice to prosecute cases of theft, and that is what should be done here if there is a theft.

Mr. J. J. M. Martin said that as a member of the highway committee he felt the matter should be investigated, and by others than the highway committee. This he thought due the committee, as he felt sure that the investigation would show that there was nothing wrong. Mr. Rogers said that if there was to be an investigation it should be by a committee consisting none of the highway committee, but he saw no occasion for an investigation. The mayor and the police had investigated, and if there is anything criminal let a prosecution follow; if there is nothing criminal, there is no occasion for an investigation.

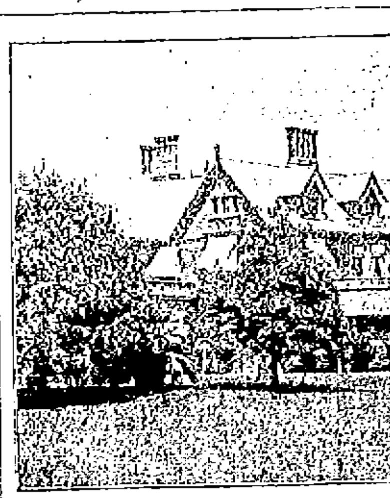

A motion to refer to the committee on streets and highways was lost and the Council finally concurred with the aldermen.

There was another long talk over a communication from the School Committee calling attention to the communication sent last May in relation to the grounds about the new high school, and the great need of action before cold weather comes. The old score of the committee on new high school came in for some of the talk. Finally the matter was referred to the committee on finance.

The Park Commission asked for $1,-877.43, the balance of the Public Improvement Fund, and $1,000 extra for the construction of a public convenience on the Mall, and for the balance of the $500 appropriated for insects, to fill out the regular park work, the appropriation being exhausted. In the Board of Aldermen the balance of the $500 was voted, and the other two resolutions were tabled. The Common Council concurred.

The petition of J. S. Kane and others, for a street light on the court off 12 Spring street, was referred to the committee on street lights.

The Council adjourned.

GREAT DEMAND FOR UMBRELLAS.

"We are selling more umbrellas than at any time in the last 15 years. I don't know why it is," said a Cleveland manufacturer to Plain Dealer reporter. "Of course, it is partly due to the increase in population, but at the same time, it is difficult to account for the change from a year ago. The extent of our sales now is restricted only by our capacity.

"People are buying more silk umbrellas than they used to, because silk is cheaper. Silk umbrellas must be of much better quality than that for dress goods. For instance, a pin hole or two would make silk unsuitable for use on an umbrella, but would not be noticed and would not lessen its value for dress goods.

"I believe the most I ever received for a single umbrella was $50. I once got $150 for a set of three, consisting of a cane, a man's and a lady's umbrella, each with the same general design of handle. There are infinite varieties of handles and the materials themselves are of great variety, such as horn, china, wood, gold, silver, bone, agate and pearl. It is remarkable how many people who could well afford gold handles prefer the wooden ones. Foxwood is the most popular. It comes from Vienna. Even wooden ones, though, are often expensive. Petrified wood and ebony are frequently used.

"No, they have never hit any improvement that will prevent an umbrella from getting lost. In fact, we owe much of our business to the fact that they are so easily lost—and to the fact that comparatively few people have any umbrella conscience. People who would not take a penny that didn't belong to them think nothing of picking up an umbrella and walking off with it. If every one who bought an umbrella carried it until it wore out, maybe we would have to go out of business. I have often sold traveling men umbrellas, a dozen at a time, just as one might sell collars. The buyer expects to lose them all in the course of a few months.

"Improvements have come in the umbrella, though, in the last few years. The device by which the umbrella is raised by pressing a button on the handle does not seem to take in the higher grades, but has been popular in the cheaper ones. People who buy an expensive umbrella insist that it be light and compact, and this is probably responsible for the fact that the self-raising device doesn't go with the better grades. One thing that is extremely popular, however, is an arrangement by which the handle can be taken off to allow the umbrella to be carried in a trunk or even a suit case. Other new umbrellas may be locked with a key. This sort are less likely to be stolen."

FUN IN "ARE YOU A MASON?"

A good-sized audience gathered at the Opera House last evening to see the farce comedy, "Are you a Mason?" adapted from the German by Leo Dietrichstein. The farce had been presented here before, and a few in the audience were inclined to make comparison with former productions, but to the greater number it was a farce comedy which made them laugh almost continually through the play. In this particular, it was a success, and as the play has but one object, that of amusing, it certainly fulfilled its mission.

The company was adequate. William Robert Daly as George Fisher was the life of the play, being ably seconded in the fun making by Thomas Chatterton as Frank Perry and Charles C. Patterson as Amos Bloodgood, while Eva Condon, Cora Belle Greene, Madeline Lark and the other women in the cast were satisfactory.

Paymaster Tiffany of the Rhode Island and Detained on Wabash Pending Investigation.

Paymaster Dexter Tiffany, Jr., U. S. N., paymaster of battleship Rhode Island since it went into commission last March, and his pay clerk, A. S. Porter, are now detained on board receiving ship Wabash at the Boston navy yard, awaiting the outcome of the investigation of their accounts, which resulted from the discovery of a shortage in the accounts of almost $2,000 by Pay Director Littlefield last Tuesday. This investigation is being held on orders from the Navy Department at Washington.

The Rhode Island went to the Boston yard about a week ago, when Pay Director Littlefield made an unexpected visit to the ship and inspected the paymaster's books. What he found and the report he made to Washington of his inspection, or anything about the matter, both Rear Admiral Snow, commandant of the yard, and Captain Bowman of the Rhode Island refuse to divulge.

It is learned, however, that the cash vouchers, which are signed by members of the crew when they receive articles from the storeroom through the paymaster's office, were far in excess of what the cash and storeroom accounts showed. Instead of balancing as they should, it is said that the cash vouchers totaled a little less than $13,-000, but that the cash on hand and the storeroom account added up to a little more than $11,000, leaving a discrepancy of almost $2,000. The shortage was in the accounts for July, at which time the Rhode Island was at sea.

That this shortage is due to the complicated bookkeeping system rather than to any other source, and will be so found after the report of the board of inquiry, which is making the investigation, has been made, is the hope of the officials of the navy yard. This investigation will include a thorough inspection of the books of the paymaster and also an inventory of the storeroom. It is expected that the board of inquiry will make its report in a few days.

Friends in the Navy Department of Paymaster Tiffany say his early resignation is not improbable. Since he was detached from battleship Rhode Island and ordered to "special duty" with the commandant at the Boston yard to settle his accounts, it is understood he has informed the department of his willingness to make good immediately the deficiency which, according to Pay Director Littlefield's report, is approximately $2,000.

As matters stand now, the department is disposed to accept Paymaster Tiffany's resignation, if it is tendered. There is nothing to show that he has been dishonest. Tiffany's record, since he entered the navy about the time of the Spanish war, has demonstrated his integrity, but the department regards him as lacking adaptation to the work. Tiffany will have no trouble making the amount good to the government, as his father, a wealthy lawyer of St. Louis, is back of him and his bondsmen.

Albert S. Porter, as paymaster's clerk, has a record for efficiency. He comes of an excellent family at Portsmouth, Va., and is well thought of at the department.

Paymaster F. E. Goodhue has been ordered to the Rhode Island.

FUSES HIT HARD.

Many Burned Out in Thursday's Storm, Suspending the Service But Preventing Fires.

The telephone repair gang is finding some surprising results from Thursday morning's storm. Thus far in their work they have found but little instrument or cable trouble, but the fuses were hit hard. While some of them have only a little hole blown in the wood fiber covering, others have disappeared altogether, except for the connecting clips on either end. The fuses are the long cylinders which are seated on the porcelain blocks at the point where the wires enter a house. The outer covering is of wood fiber, some red and some black. These tubes have slits sawed in them to provide a vent to the inside, for the release of the pressure when the fuse blows. The fuse is a long wire-like affair which readily melts when too strong a current attempts to pass over it. This wire is encased in a covering of asbestos. It is this sort of contrivance which was blown into such small fragments that the pieces had to be swept up in a dust pan. It was also these little devices which not only saved the instruments but also probably saved the starting of many fires.

The test was a severe one on the telephone equipment, but it has proved that the engineers have protected the system with safety devices which are what they pretend to be. Some may think the company should not install devices which will throw one's service out of use so readily and cause them so much annoyance, and yet if these persons would give the matter a little thought they would realize that, while under the present arrangement they only lose their telephones for a day or two, without such protection a storm like the recent one would throw out hundreds of telephones from service for weeks and perhaps months, particularly if the switchboard had been burned out.

Low Prices will Draw Trade
High Quality will Hold Trade

WE HAVE BOTH.

We have no time to waste in speculating on our position in the city, as to what we are, or how, or where. We do not care a great lot whether you think we are in a class by ourselves, or no better than any one else. But we do care that you find in this store a little better quality than you do anywhere else, at just a little lower price. The rapid growth of this store offers to anyone the proof of the foregoing.

TODAY IT IS FURS.

All furs are bought wholesale in New York. There's no secrecy about it. No wholesaler who wants to stay in business long can or will sell us anything other than what we want. Our trade calls for just one thing—the best—we buy nothing else.

BUT HOW DO WE BUY?

The puchasing power of Our Four Combined Stores places us in a position to buy enough to get what is called a "jobbers' price." That is always lower than the dealer who stands alone can get. And what does that mean? We want you to come in and see for yourself. Our stock is now larger than ever before, and here's just one illustration;
